

BID OF POWER COMPANY FACES STIFF BATTLE

Opponents Will Try To Have Bill Sent to Committee To Block Action This Year.

CHAIRMAN NORTON TO FIGHT MEASURE

House Leaders Decide To Postpone Taking Any Action Until Senate Has Reached Vote.

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—Maneuvering began in the senate today in preparation for the opening Thursday of the fight over Muscle Shoals legislation.

House leaders have decided to defer action until after the senate votes and senate opponents of the joint committee's bill authorizing the lease of the property to the Associated Southern Power companies hope to prevent a vote at this session.

Seek Committee Hearing.

Their efforts will be made first to refer the bill to the senate agriculture committee, where its proponents declare it would be shelved permanently. The vote on this proposal will represent a test of strength and managers of the bill plan to quit the fight if it is sent to committee.

On the other hand, Chairman Norris, of the agriculture committee and his government operation supporters will continue their attack against the measure if it is placed on the calendar. They plan to resort to all parliamentary tactics to kill the legislation.

Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, who refused to endorse the power companies' bid when it was before the joint committee, late today introduced a bill to accept the proposal of the American Cyanamid company as a substitute to the pending bill, which is now on the table to be called up Thursday.

Vote on Heflin Substitute.

If a vote finally is reached, the Heflin substitute will be voted on first. If it is defeated, the Alabama senator may vote for the power companies' bid rather than have all Muscle Shoals legislation defeated. He declared he assisted in preparing the fertilizer provision of the power companies' bill when it was before the committee and it guaranteed to the farmers 40,000 tons of fixed nitrogen annually.

The power companies' proposal would not have easy sailing in the house if it ever is called up there. Representative James, republican, Michigan, who served on the joint committee, is prepared to fight the measure and has offered a minority report assailing members of the committee, the associated counsel and the power companies' offer.

Oppose Power Bid.

He received encouragement today in telegrams from the Muscle Shoals district urging him to keep up his fight against turning the property over to the power companies. One message signed by Little McClung, of Florence, Ala., declared the people of the Tennessee valley rejoiced in his "bold stand to defeat the effort of the power trust and Wall street to get hold of Muscle Shoals." He urged him to work to place the property in the hands of Henry Ford, Ohio, musclemen, who have been made to him recently by citizens of Muscle Shoals but so far the Detroit manufacturer has remained silent. A close associate of Henry Ford said in response to the question: "You never can tell what Ford will do."

HAWES TO QUIT HOUSE TO SEEK PLACE IN SENATE

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—Representative Hawes, democrat, Missouri, today resigned his membership in the house, effective next fall, to become a candidate for the senate.

Do You Watch for Changes in Sales Prices of Commodities?

The prices of stocks, bonds, cotton, wheat, corn, etc., fluctuate slightly from day to day. Newspapers carry the market quotations, and men who are interested watch them carefully so they may buy when the prices are down and sell when they are up.

The sales prices on practically all commodities change from day to day, being governed by conditions that permit merchants and dealers to offer attractive bargains to their customers. In Atlanta the merchants advertise their bargains every morning in The Constitution.

The purchasing agent for the home should follow the advertisements in The Constitution as closely as a broker follows the quotations on the market page. It is business with her just as it is business with him.

No matter how busy you may be always take time to read the advertisements in The Constitution.

District Attorney Strikes Back at Opponents of His Reappointment in Senate Hearing.

DENIES RECEIVING BIG LIQUOR BRIBES

Reveals Attempts To Drive Out Bootleggers And Names Former Sheriff as Head of Ring.

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—District Attorney Boyles, of Mobile, Ala., struck back today at opponents of his reappointment.

Before a senate judiciary subcommittee he outlined results of his activities in prohibition enforcement in Mobile in 1923, and declared that the department of justice had been fully advised of his campaign and had approved it.

He declared that the sheriff of Mobile county was the head of a bootlegging ring there before his "clean-up," that bootleggers had a "slush fund" raised by taxing every gallon of liquor handled, and that he had been promised one-fourth of all of these collections, "up to $100,000," if he would ease up on his enforcement program.

Plans to trap these would-be bribers, which included the use of a dictaphone, failed, he said, when they learned of the presence of undercover federal agents in Mobile, and became suspicious.

Bribees Are Denied.

Prior to Boyles' testimony in his own behalf, Joseph John, assistant district attorney at Mobile called to testify by those opposing Boyles' reappointment, said he did not believe Boyles "had received a dime" of the money collected by Harry French, an informer, John admitted that Attorney Boyles had been "relentless, vigorous and fearless" in prosecuting liquor and narcotic cases and that the "church people generally are back of Mr. Boyles."

Much of District Attorney Boyles' testimony dealt with attempts to bribe him and to the activities of French who "collected" $18,000 from bootleggers who assumed they would receive protection.

"I was not interested in the money French was collecting," Boyles said. "I made the specific injunction to him that he should never represent himself as coming from me or what he could do or could be done in my office. It is my idea that French never had to promise these bootleggers immunity, that it was their assumption that he could arrange it, and the subject was never mentioned between them. They thought it was a very cute way of doing business. We were using him and the bootleggers themselves for information and they were paying him."

He said he was determined to drive bootleggers out of Mobile, "so there might be at least one dry port on the Gulf of Mexico," adding that his campaign had resulted in the arrests of many "men who had made fortunes in bootlegging but whose names had never appeared on the court dockets."

The hearing adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Fawn Charges Husband Kept Her Prisoner

Dancer, Seeking Divorce, Says She Fled by Fire Escape.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Baltimore, Md., April 27.—For two days after her marriage to Theodore MacFarland, Philadelphia newspaper man, Fawn Gray, dancer, and one-time favorite of Harry K. Thaw, was kept prisoner under armed guard in a Philadelphia hotel.

Evidence to this effect will be given in her suit for annulment of the marriage, it was said today by J. Charles Fagan, her Baltimore attorney.

Fawn, whose real name is Gladys Marie Brown, will testify that her marriage occurred in the New York city municipal building following a wild party at the Club Madrid, Philadelphia.

Fawn escaped the guard he placed over her, she declares, by climbing down a fire escape.

MISS LOIS MEEK SERIOUSLY HURT

JURY IN BANK KILLING CASE IS DISCHARGED AFTER BEING DEADLOCKED FOR MORE THAN 29 HOURS.

"TIGER LIL" HAPPY OVER JURY ACTION

County Prosecutor Undecided Whether To Try Whittemore Again or Send Him to Baltimore.

BY FRANK DOLAN.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Buffalo, N. Y., April 27.—While wild cheering rocked the Erie county courthouse, the Richard Reese Whittemore case jury announced to Supreme Court Justice Noonan that it could not convict the former Baltimore altar boy of the murder of the bank guard, Charles W. Clifford.

The jury had been deliberating for 29 hours. Three times today the 12 men in whose hands the fate of the boy had lay came back into the courtroom for instructions.

And then at 11 o'clock tonight when many thought a verdict might have been reached, the jury strode into the courtroom once more.

Crowds Are Dense.

The crowds in the corridors and outside the jail were so dense that 100 policemen, specially detailed to the building, experienced difficulty in maintaining order.

Whittemore yawned prodigiously as he sat down at the counsel table beside one of his attorneys, Melvin Greene. He looked a trifle worn, but seemed in no wise worried over the possible outcome of the trial in which his life was at stake.

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you reached a verdict?" Justice Noonan asked.

Roscoe C. Stacey, architect, the former altar boy, arose and announced in a loud voice:

"The jury is inflexibly locked. We have given all matters of evidence every consideration. The main question we have in mind is a question of doubt."

Conference Is Held.

Justice Noonan then motioned to Melvin Greene and Walter Hofheins, assistant district attorney, and the three conferred at the bench.

While this conference was going on "Tiger Lil," wife of Whittemore, "Candy Kid," sat tense and rigid in a front seat beside her father-in-law, Rawlings W. Whittemore.

And when, after a brief three minutes of parley, Justice Noonan commended the jury for honest service and gave the men permission to cease their deliberations and go home, Tiger Lil half-swooned in the arms of the elder Whittemore.

The thousands outside the courtroom, in the corridors, on the sidewalks about the building, seemed to sense the dramatic import of the return of the jury. Almost before the words ending the case and freeing Whittemore of the murder charge were spoken, a frenzied demonstration broke out.

"Hurrah for Whittemore!" "Hurrah for Dick!" "Hurrah for Tiger Lil!" they shouted.

"Tiger Lil" Happy.

Whittemore was whisked hurriedly through the tunnel to the county jail. He had no time for a statement. But his wife spoke her joy in a choking voice as the tears rolled down her cheeks.

"I'm tickled and I'm too upset to say more. Please leave me alone!"

Guy B. Moore, county prosecutor, said: "I don't know now whether I will try Whittemore for the murder of Louis Yarrington—who was slain with Clifford—or send him to Baltimore, where he is wanted for the murder of a state prison guard."

Phone Girls Save Several Lives in Fire

Sisters Risk Their Lives in Arousing Sleeping Residents.

Centerville, Miss., April 27.—(AP)—Misses Floy and Joella Glass, local telephone operators, were credited with saving the lives of several persons and preventing more serious property damage by risking their lives here today in order to arouse sleeping residents. They notified citizens of flames which swept a block of the business district, causing damage estimated to total $100,000.

When the young women learned of the fire, they began spreading the news. Three times they were driven from their posts by intense heat and smoke. On each occasion, however, they returned and continued their work. The building in which the telephone exchange was located was burning. The sisters refused to permit the possibility of the brick walls or metal roof of the structure that housed their headquarters collapsing to interfere with their work.

DRY REORGANIZATION BILL GIVEN APPROVAL BY HOUSE WITHOUT RECORDING VOTE

'Tiger Lil,' Wife of 'Candy Kid,' Rejoices as Jury Is Discharged

MEASURE PROVIDES NEW DRY BUREAU FOR ENFORCEMENT

Bill Goes Through 196 to 4 After Attack on Coolidge and Mellon by Democrats.

WET AMENDMENT IS THROWN OUT

Action Shows Great Strength of Dries Under Present Conditions in Congress.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, April 27.—Drys showed their power in this congress by putting through the house the Green prohibition reorganization bill to set up a separate enforcement bureau in the treasury department and pull the enforcement machinery together under one responsible bureau chief.

The measure went through without a record vote, 196 to 4, after a dry attack from the democratic side on President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon because of alleged laxity in enforcement. Wets did not attempt to force a roll call.

An attempt on behalf of the wets by LaGuardia, New York socialist, to amend the bill to permit sale of 2.75 per cent beer was unceremoniously thrown out on a point of order. Similar treatment met his other amendment to require all enforcement officers to give their time exclusively to enforcement of the law. This was an indirect attempt to rebuke Prohibition Administrator Baird, of Pittsburgh, who recently admitted he was drawing $12,000 a year salary as a railroad executive in addition to his $6,000 government salary.

Again prohibition showed its persistent tendency to overshadow all other problems at Washington. In addition to the action of the house, the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist church continued the wet and dry debate in a statement declaring that the senate beer hearings had left the whole question back where it was before, and the California Wine association filed suit in the supreme court of the District of Columbia seeking to enjoin Secretary of the Treasury Mellon from interfering with the sale of sacramental wine.

In the senate, Edwards, New Jersey, democrat, who claims to be better than the Atlantic ocean, caused a laugh by presenting a dry petition from a Hoboken church which said that prohibition was the greatest step toward human freedom from the slavery of drink.

The attack on Coolidge and Mellon developed when the provision amending the secretary of the treasury

BRITAIN TO WAGE VIGOROUS FIGHT OVER BETTING TAX

Churchill's Proposal Becomes National Issue at Once, With Moral Aspect Looming Large.

London, April 27.—(AP)—The betting tax, proposed by Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill in his budget speech yesterday, has become a national issue overnight, with its moral aspect looming large. So fierce has the controversy become that the rest of the chancellor's budget projects have been well nigh forgotten.

Taken altogether, the chancellor has brought down a tremendous opposition throughout Great Britain, and even in his own party voices have been lifted against his proposal. However, he probably will get a safe majority for its passage when the government slips get to work on the big conservative majority in the house of commons.

Oppose Racing Tax.

Outside of parliament there are many elements opposed to the tax for various reasons, the bookmakers and the church people both for once finding themselves on the same side of the fence. The bookmakers naturally oppose it on general principles—"it's going to lessen their profits."

The attitude of the church people and the social workers has been summed up by Lloyd George in the upshot of the government's proposal that the betting tax is thoroughly bad. "It is going to drive hundreds of bookmakers to the streets," he said today. "The government proposal by increasing street betting will increase the evil, an illegal evil, in its most pernicious form."

Churchill Supported.

Yet Chancellor Churchill has many supporters who contend that as long as credit betting with bookmakers at regularly established offices and betting on race courses are already legal, there is no reason why the government should not exact a toll.

Chancellor Churchill estimated that there would be a revenue of 6,000,000 pounds a year based on a 5 per cent tax, which would indicate that he figured on a taxable turnover of 120,000,000 pounds.

GUARDS AUTHORIZED TO VISIT EUROPE

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—Authority for four celebrated national guard organizations to visit France, England and Belgium this summer is contained in a house bill just passed by the senate and sent to the president.

The organizations are the Richmond (Va.) light infantry blues; companies of the governor's footguard of Hartford and New Haven, Conn., and the Putnam guards of Hartford, Conn.

Curfew Law for New York

NIGHT CLUB SCENES SCORED BY EXECUTIVE Advocated by Mayor Walker

New York, April 27.—When the boys called him "Jimmy," Mayor James J. Walker was one of the best known round-the-towners in and out of the cabaret lanes.

But now, as mayor of the largest city, Jimmy has advocated an early morning curfew on Broadway night life. If his address to the national vaudeville artists Tuesday is interpreted correctly, night clubs will be ordered to close their doors at 3 a. m.

Mayor Walker explained the situation thus:

"I am against entertainment in night clubs which lasts until the morning hour and becomes an orgy. These places which spill women in décolleté gowns and bedazzled escorts into the street at seven in the morning are insults to the decent, normal men and women then legitimately abroad."

"If these resorts are run for the benefit of visitors who must be entertained in this manner and insist upon sensations they would not indulge in at home, then I say these people are not wanted in New York."

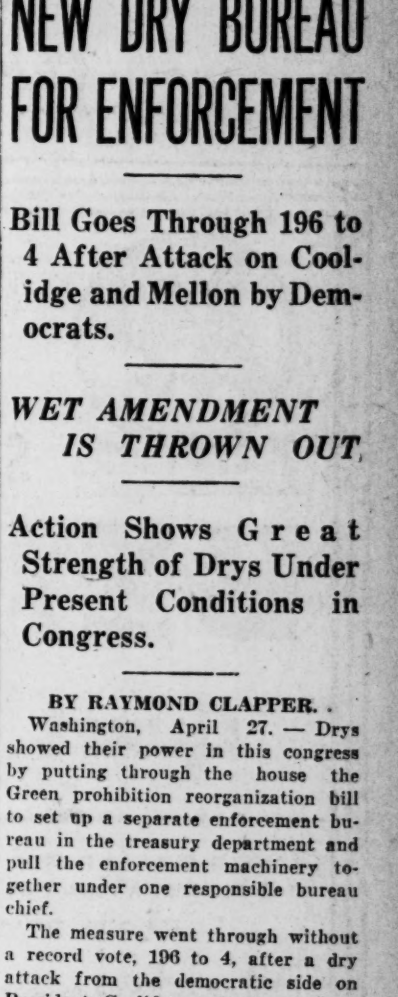

"We can get along without them. Let them debauch their home towns and not come to New York expecting all-night revelry and the maintenance of orgies in their behalf."

"I, as an individual, visited night clubs. I could walk through a cabaret and call most of the habitués by their first names. But, as chief magistrate, I view these things from the standpoint of millions of families."

"As James J. Walker, mayor of New York, I say that these orgies must stop."

Mrs. Richard Reese Whittemore, known as the "Tiger Woman," went to Buffalo to help her husband in his trial on the charge of killing two men in a payroll holdup. "I came to help Dick. I know he is innocent," she told reporters.

MOVIE MAGNATES SCORE PROPOSED CENSORSHIP BILL

Pictures Are Growing Cleaner Every Day, Counsel for Film Makers Tells House Committee.

BY JAS. O'DONNELL BENNETT.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, April 27.—Fighting what they call "freak censorship bills," movie magnates today told the education committee of the house of representatives that the movies are growing cleaner and cleaner every year.

"The 104 best sellers in the business last year," said Charles C. Pettijohn, chief spokesman and counsel for the magnates, "were pictures that the bluest of blue law advocates couldn't croak a finger at."

"We are cleaner every year. I am speaking for the motion picture producers and distributors of America. Three years ago there were 20 pictures that could have been—criticized on the ground of moral turpitude; two years ago there were 15; last year there were five. I believe that next year there won't be one."

Chase Hits Pictures.

Canon William Sheaf Chase, Brooklyn, superintendent of the International Reform Federation, who appeared today in behalf of the drastic Upshaw and Swoone movie censorship bills and who last week was one of the most denunciatory of the blue knights at the United States senate's prohibition tournament, would not accept Lawyer Pettijohn's optimistic view at all.

"At every general assembly of the Presbyterian church in which Mr. Hays, the so-called czar of the movies, is an elder, the church repeats its decision that the pictures are not right, and, despite the presence and opposition of Mr. Hays, it reiterates its demand for local, state and federal regulation of motion pictures," he said today. "There is no question but that all over the world there is revolt against the evil of motion pictures. When President Coolidge says that he is not in favor of the Upshaw bill but of state control, I feel that either he has not seen the Upshaw bill, or that it has slipped ever so far from him by some member of the movie trust."

"There is no 'movie trust,'" interrupted Mr. Pettijohn. "There are more than 20,000 motion picture theaters in the United States and only 300 in one chain, so the industry cannot be monopolistic."

Lawyer Pettijohn toyed humorously with every provision in the Upshaw bill that authors wishing to submit a scenario to the proposed federal censorship board for examination, and possible recommendation, must deposit a fee of $25.

"Why not make it $25,000?" the lawyer for the movies recommended. "Recommendation even if that price would be cheap—if it carried the guarantee of success, and, judging by the powers which this freak bill confers upon the proposed board, anything the board said would be a guarantee of everything. But what is the truth about guessing a success? Nobody can do it."

The hearing was adjourned next Tuesday.

KINGS BAY READY TO RECEIVE NORGE

Kings Bay, April 25.—(By Ship to Spitzbergen).—(Copyright, 1926, by United News.)—Preparations for the arrival of the dirigible Norge, in which are pinned the hopes of the Amundsen-Ellsworth expedition for a flight across the north pole, are being completed.

Captain Raold Amundsen and Lincoln Ellsworth have personally directed the arrangements for mooring the dirigible when she arrives next week, and are spending their time in sking trips and in superintending the unloading of cargo which consists mostly of hydrogen for the Norge. A long period of clear weather, with a northeasterly wind, and a severe frost, has been followed by a mild spell. The temperature is 40 degrees Fahrenheit. The cold wind has broken and the ice is disappearing to such an extent that it is quite possible to reach the quay.

Work on the mooring mast for the Norge was the last activity of the men in charge of the airship here. The ship, Knut Skarvren, which brought Amundsen and Ellsworth to Kings Bay, is now almost unloaded. Talk of arrival of the Norge occupies practically the entire time of the natives at Kings Bay. While the welcome here will not be on a scale to compare with receptions given the airship and its crew in European cities, it will be none the less enthusiastic as far as the residents of this isolated town are concerned.

Colonel C. C. Hearn Assumes Command Of Artillery Area

Colonel C. C. Hearn, of the coast artillery corps, has just assumed command of the Fourth coast artillery district, reporting in from a leave of absence of three months, during which time he visited with his family in Nice, France. He is stationed at Fort McPherson.

Early in October Colonel Hearn was a passenger aboard the United States shipping board liner "President Roosevelt" and played an important part in the rescue of the crew of the ill-fated steamer "Antioch."

Colonel Hearn is taking over the duties of commanding officer of the Fourth coast artillery district on June 1. He will move temporarily to Fort Barrancas, Florida, where he will assume command of the summer training camps at that station, returning to Fort McPherson, Georgia, the latter part of August for permanent station.

COLONIAL DAMES OF STATE VISIT BENNING TODAY

Columbus, Ga., April 27.—The annual meeting of the Georgia Society of Colonial Dames opened today at St. Luke's Methodist church with the address of Mrs. Clarence C. Anderson, Jr., of Savannah. Mrs. Anderson reviewed the work of the society both state and nationally the past year and made several minor recommendations as to change in by-laws. Wednesday the delegates will be given a tour of Camp Benning and will witness a great military demonstration at 10:30 o'clock. At noon they will be guests of honor at a field kitchen luncheon at the camp. Several other entertainment features have been planned for the delegates. Mrs. Clarence G. Anderson, Jr., of Savannah is president of the society and is presiding over the sessions. Mrs. Joseph R. Lamar, of Atlanta, national president, will take part on the program.

PIONEER SOUTHERNER SUCCUMBS IN MIAMI

The death of Harry C. Brown, member of a distinguished southern family and prominent financier and editor, at his home at Mildred lane, Miami, Fla., has caused widespread regret over the south, particularly in Georgia. Mr. Brown, formerly of this city, had lived in Miami for the past few years and was prominently identified with the business, church and social life of Florida since moving to Miami.

He had a wide circle of friends in Georgia and was an intimate friend of the late Henry W. Grady, Joel Chandler Harris and others. He was at one time editor of the Southern Alliance Farmer, and was assisted in this work by his wife, who was the daughter of the late W. R. Gorman, member of the Georgia state senate for many years and chairman of the committee which drafted the Georgia constitution.

Early in life Mr. Brown married Miss Susie Howell, of Alabama. From this union there were four children: Armstead, Dowell, Frances and Dana. After the death of Mrs. Susie Howell Brown he was married to Miss Mildred Gorman, of Tampa.

Mr. Brown and his son, Chief Justice Armstead Brown, of the supreme court of Florida, moved to Miami in 1914. It was a small city and both have taken active part in its unusual development the last decade. Both had amassed fortunes there and one of the principal developments by Mr. Brown was the Little River section of Miami.

It was one of Mr. Brown's greatest wishes to return to his native state to spend his last days, it is said, and at the time of his death he was making plans to return to his farm at Talbotton. He was for several years president of the Georgia society at Miami.

In addition to his wife and son Mr. Brown is survived by a grandson, Dana Brown, a popular student at Emory university.

Elks' Band Engaged To Play Regularly At Lakewood Park

Engagement of the Elks' Royal Purple band to play free concerts at Lakewood park every Sunday afternoon throughout the season was announced Thursday by Oscar Mills, secretary of the Southeastern Fair association, which operates the park for the city.

The band was presented in concerts with Mme. Nora Allen-Volpi on the opening and second Sundays of the park season and the music met such cordial response from the crowds of record-breaking size that filled the park on both occasions that decision was made to have the free concerts as regular events. John T. Lee is to continue as leader of the band with William Ritter as manager, Mr. Mills stated.

LOCAL LIBRARIANS TO HONOR VISITORS AT DINNER TONIGHT

Local librarians and trustees of the Carnegie library of Atlanta will honor two noted librarians, Charles F. D. Belden, director of the Boston public library, and W. O. Carson, inspector of public libraries, of Ontario, at a dinner at the Carnegie library tonight.

The visit of Mr. Belden, who is president of the American Library association, gives Atlanta librarians an opportunity to celebrate locally the fiftieth anniversary of the association, which was organized October 6, 1876. Mr. Belden and Mr. Carson come to Atlanta from Signal Mountain, where they have been in attendance at the meeting of the Southeastern Library association.

About 70 guests will be present at the dinner, honoring visiting librarians tonight.

BURGULARS RANSACK TWO ATLANTA HOMES

Working so quietly that members of the homes were not disturbed, robbers ransacked two Atlanta homes late Monday night and escaped with nearly $50 in money and a quantity of clothing. The robberies were not discovered until early Tuesday, when they were reported to Lieutenant T. D. Shaw, who assigned Detectives Louis Zehl and A. E. Davis to complete the investigation.

At one of the homes, M. A. Donnerman, of 225 Woodward avenue, reported the theft of $40 in cash. Sam J. Cohen, of 265 Washington street, reported the theft of $8 in money and a quantity of clothing.

The bakery of Rosalie Joyner, 287 Ponce de Leon avenue, was burglarized sometime before day Tuesday and $2 in small change and a quantity of cakes, pies and pastries was taken.

Mrs. Robin Adair, 33 West Fourteenth street, reported the theft of a valuable platinum bracelet set with three diamonds, three sapphires and six crystals.

DECISION DELAYED ON BIG SHIP DEAL

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Directors of the International Mercantile Marine corporation today reviewed the provisional agreement for the sale of the White Star line to British interests, but deferred formal approval of the deal until all details could be completed.

Meanwhile, P. A. S. Franklin, president of the company, continued negotiations in London which are expected to place the White Star fleet under the control of a syndicate headed by Furness, Withy and company.

Financial and shipping circles responded favorably to a report that the International Mercantile Marine corporation would dispose of other vessels flying foreign flags in addition to the White Star ships in order to build up an all-American fleet. While it is believed the Leviathan and other well-known American liners will be acquired by the corporation, no negotiations have yet been opened with the United States lines for their purchase.

Plan To Reduce Murder Record Of U. S. Sought

Washington, April 27.—Among the things the United States is famous for is its murder record which is the highest in the world. The national crime commission is meeting here to do something about it.

The homicide rate in the United States is far ahead of any other country, being 7.2 per cent per 100,000 population compared with 3.6 per 100,000 in Italy. The rate is less than one per 100,000 in all other countries except Australia and South Africa, where it is slightly under 2 out of 100,000.

The rate in Jacksonville, Fla., was 58 per 100,000 in 1924. It is less than one in England. New York is slightly below the average for the country. Committees for study of methods to reduce crime are headed by former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, former Governor Herbert S. Hadley, of Missouri, and Mrs. Richard D. Byrd, daughter of the late President Roosevelt. Others on the national commission include former Secretary of State Hughes, former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, and former Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The commission is concerned largely with crimes of violence.

Atlanta Girls Interested In "Charleston" Tourney

With inquiries coming in every hour from Atlanta girls who are proficient in dancing the "Charleston" all indications point to a heavy list of entries in The Constitution-Public "Charleston" beauty tournament which will be staged during the week of May 10 at the Howard theater to select the Atlanta entry for the John Murray Anderson production of "Charleston," which will be staged in New York June 13.

Some of the most attractive prizes ever offered in any contest will be awarded. The winner will receive an engagement to appear for twelve weeks in "Charleston" in twelve Public theaters located in principal cities of the United States at a salary of $75 a week. Second prize is $100 in gold; third prize is $75 in gold and fourth prize is a three-months pass to the Howard theater.

Under The Constitution-Public arrangement the winner of the Atlanta contest will go to New York June 9 for the New York engagement. She will appear with the John Murray Anderson production in Public theaters located in New York, Boston, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Dallas, Memphis and Atlanta. The Atlanta engagement will be played the week of September 5 and the Atlanta winner will act as hostess for The Constitution to the visiting winners.

Elimination contests will be held during the week of May 10 at the Howard theater twice daily. On Saturday night the finals will be held and the judges will select the girl who is to represent Atlanta in the New York production.

This is a wonderful opportunity for some Atlanta girl to obtain a stage engagement with one of the highest class productions in the country. Entries in The Constitution-Public contest can be made with the manager of the Howard theater.

LONG TRIP MADE BY LOS ANGELES

Lakehurst, N. J., April 27.—(AP)—The first extensive flight of the United States navy dirigible Los Angeles, since it was reconditioned after 10 months' idleness took the ship to Atlantic City, Cape May and Philadelphia today. When it returned to Lakehurst and was safely berthed in the hangar at 7:25 p. m., Captain George W. Steele, Jr., commandant, said the trip had been successful.

"We encountered rougher weather than I liked," he said, "but that was what the structural engineers aboard were looking for in order to test various parts of the ship."

He said that a water pipe on the rear gondola broke, one wire snapped and a section of the covering showed signs of wear at a spot that touched the side of the hangar in getting the ship out. None of these he considered serious.

Captain Steele said the next trip would probably be on Thursday.

NEGRO FOUND GUILTY OF ATTACK ON GIRL

Madisonville, Ky., April 27.—(AP)—Bunyan Fleming, negro, was sentenced to death by a jury in Judge Ruby Laffoon's court here tonight when he was found guilty of a charge of attacking a 16-year-old white girl recently at the Madisonville Country club.

The verdict was returned at 8:23 o'clock after the jury had deliberated but 10 minutes. Fleming showed no emotion when the verdict was read and was led back to his cell. The death penalty on conviction of attack is by hanging. No date was set.

Counsel for Fleming announced the case would be appealed.

Three Measures Offered In House To Aid Farmer Without Recommendation

Plan Presented by Representative Tinchler Comes With Approval of Secretary Jardine.

Washington, April 27.—(P)—Consideration by the house of farm relief legislation is expected to begin early next week.

The agriculture committee, reporting three bills today, requested that they be given right of way as soon as possible and were told by Representative Tinchler, the republican leader, they probably could be called up Tuesday. Four days general debate is in prospect.

Report Three Bills.
Carrying out the program it adopted 10 days ago, the committee reported the Haugen bill to stabilize prices with a revolving fund of $375,000,000 and collection of an equalization fee on basic commodities after two years; the Tinchler proposal to carry out Secretary Jardine's plan with an appropriation of $100,000,000 for loans to farmers' cooperative associations; and the Curtis-Awell measure to form national commodity marketing associations, financed by the farmers.

None of the bills commanded a majority of the committee which defeated 15 to 5, a motion to have them reported separately, with a record vote on each. The vote to report the three concurrently was unanimous.

Coming after more than two months of hearings, the procedure today represents the committee's final move on farm relief this session, except for pressing for action on the floor. It calls for the Haugen bill to be brought up under a special rule making the other two measures in order as substitutes, thus giving the house an opportunity to vote on all three.

Haugen Urges Plan.

In his report urging the stabilization plan, Chairman Haugen, contended that agriculture was in urgent need of federal aid and pointed to the assistance given the merchant marine, reclamation and other projects as evidence that precedent has been established for such assistance. Representative Tinchler, republican, Kansas, reporting the bill embracing the Jardine credit plan, declared it would give the farmers the necessary finances to carry out "orderly marketing" and would not result in government interference in an industry that should be controlled by the producers.

The report made by Representative Awell, of Louisiana, ranking democrat on the committee, on behalf of his proposal, said it would keep the farm relief problem out of politics by setting up machinery for the farmers to control their commodities.

American Pummels Italian And Is Placed in Prison

Charged With Derogatory Remarks About Mussolini

Rome, April 27.—(P)—John Adams Abbott, of Boston, Mass., who recently was graduated from college and is touring Italy with his mother, Mrs. Grafton St. Lee Abbott, has come into conflict with the Italian authorities, and is confined in the Regina Coeli prison in Rome. He engaged last night in a fight with Salvatore Astrolago, a Roman guide, whom he punished severely. In turn, the guide not only charged him with assault but with using derogatory remarks against Premier Mussolini.

Abbott does not deny the assault, but declared it is a "frame-up" so far as the Mussolini side of the accusation is concerned. There is a penalty of imprisonment by recent legislative enactment for insulting the premier.

The American embassy and consulate thus far have been unable to obtain even provisional liberty for young Abbott but will renew their efforts tomorrow, for this case will not come up for trial for 10 days unless the American authorities are able to arrange for special procedure. It doubtless will be difficult to obtain Abbott's release, for physicians report that Astrolago's jaw was fractured and his eye badly injured.

The trouble started yesterday afternoon when Astrolago, who was acting as guide for two tourists, incurred Abbott's ire at the gate of the Vatican gardens by cutting in ahead of him at the ticket window. Heated remarks were exchanged. Abbott declared he was an American and refused to be insulted and Astrolago retorted that he was a fascist Italian and equally as good as an American.

Later, Astrolago called at Abbott's hotel and invited him outside.

The American readily complied, and met the Italian, who had with him several other men. A savage fist fight ensued and finally Astrolago's friends called the carabinieri.

COOLIDGE FEARS DEFICIT IN 1927

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Washington, April 27.—A deficit of $21,000,000 is in prospect for the fiscal year, 1927, according to information given President Coolidge by the budget bureau.

Congressional leaders are being warned, it was stated at the white house, that any proposals for legislation involving continuing expenditures must be considered with the prospective deficit in mind.

There will be a comfortable margin at the end of the fiscal year, 1926, according to the president's information.

A business recession, it was held, would mean an increase in the $21,000,000 deficit.

COOLIDGE FAVORS WHITE RADIO BILL

BY THOMAS L. STOKES,
United News Staff Correspondent.
Washington, April 27.—President Coolidge and the senate are at odds over legislation for regulation of radio. This may endanger final enactment of a bill at this session of congress.

The president endorsed the White bill, which has passed the house already through his spokesman Tuesday, and opposed the Dill bill pending in the senate which would set up a federal radio commission, a quasi-public body, which would operate under the department of commerce. The Dill bill would divorce radio regulation entirely from the department of commerce.

This divergence of view may prevent passage of regulatory legislation now regarded as absolutely necessary because of the recent federal court decision at Chicago which challenged the authority of the secretary of commerce to assign time and wave lengths for broadcasting.

Just before the president's position was made known at the white house Tuesday, the senate interstate commerce committee considered the Dill bill, which was favorably received by a majority of the committee. It is expected that the committee will take final action Wednesday and it is predicted that the measure will be reported favorably.

The president's opposition to an independent radio regulating commission is on the general ground that it is against his policy to establish independent bureaus unless it is absolutely necessary. He feels there are too many such independent boards and commissions already. Creation of such bureaus, which are responsible to no executive department, fosters bureaucracy, in his opinion. He believes that every phase of industrial and national life can be handled by executive departments, except such as are too technical, in which class he considers the interstate commerce commission for railroads.

Commission Plan Defended.
The commission set up in the Dill bill is compared by its advocates to the interstate commerce commission, and the chief argument for it is that radio has become such an important subject, and involves so many technicalities, that a separate and independent commission is necessary to supervise it.

Florida's largest public utility enters Coral Gables

THE Florida Power & Light Company, a $70,000,000 organization serving more than sixty communities throughout Florida, has come to Coral Gables—the Miami Riviera. This move can be readily understood in the light of the rapidly increasing population and tremendous business development of Coral Gables.

Florida is experiencing a growth rarely if ever equaled in the history of the Nation . . . a growth based on the sound economics of climate, soil and natural resources. It is logical, therefore, that a great public service organization should locate its properties in those portions of the state most favorably affected by this development.

Well-placed confidence

The Florida Power & Light Company's purchase for $1,250,000 of the light and water facilities of Coral Gables and the leasing of the Flagler Street and Coral Gables Rapid Transit Lines clearly indicates the stability and sound progress of the city.

Coral Gables has entrusted its public service operations to strong and responsible interests and these same interests have shown their faith and confidence by an investment of more than a million dollars within the city. This in itself is conclusive proof that Coral Gables has taken its place among the firmly established cities of the country.

Since this great utility thinks enough of Coral Gables to invest in it a million and a quarter dollars, it is certainly a safe and profitable investment for you.

AS FINE AS MONEY CAN BUILD

CHRYSLER IMPERIAL

INSURING LONG LIFE

CHRYSLER IMPERIAL "80"—a car as fine as money can build—bears within itself every material element and craftsmanship essential necessary to long life. But Chrysler engineers add to the supreme quality which is built into the car other extraordinary factors of endurance. For instance, every drop of oil circulating through the engine is filtered clean of the dirt and grit which would otherwise work into the engine and cause undue wear. A highly efficient air-cleaner keeps destructive dust and dirt from entering the cylinders through the carburetor. The efficiency of the motor is thermostatically controlled. The motor, also, is fully insulated from the frame by rear mountings of live rubber which eliminate all traces of vibration. Rubber shock insulators prevent the usual mechanical strains due to road jolts. Balance throughout the motor and chassis is carried to the final degree, so that sense of mechanical operation is eliminated at all speeds. In safeguards of quality, as in quality itself, the Chrysler Imperial "80" is beyond comparison.

2 ARRESTS MADE IN EVANS KILLING

Paris, Tenn., April 27.—(P)—Clyde Lashlee, 23, and Frank Grainger, 19, were arrested today on a charge of accessory to the fact after murder in connection with the death of Thomas Evans, dry crusade aide, who was slain from ambush Sunday, April 18. The two men were held tonight in default of $2,000 bond.

The arrests were described by officials as a "technical move" as a result of conditions existing in the wake of the killing of Evans, member of a law enforcement group, who was shot to death nine days ago.

The warrants for the arrest of the two men were sworn to by Mrs. Claudius Evans, widow of the slain man. They were taken into custody by Sheriff Caldwell, of Henry county, and Homer G. Wells, a Memphis detective. They will be given a preliminary hearing tomorrow.

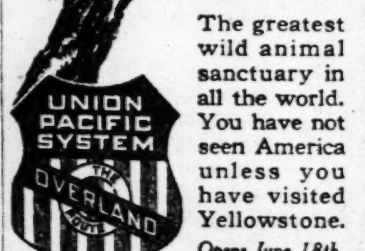

Announcement was made that the men will be questioned by the sheriff, W. T. Griffin, inspector of detectives of the Memphis police department, and two other Memphis detectives who came to Paris to aid local officials in locating the slayer of Evans.

DANDRUFF?

Bottle Bacilli, the cause of Dandruff. Illustration reproduced from Hensen's "Diseases of the Skin," C. V. Mosby, Publisher.

Dandruff is a disease difficult to cure, but easy to check. Unless properly treated it has a persistent tendency to reappear, and often in more virulent form, with possible loss of hair or even total baldness. The treatment to check dandruff requires constant cleanliness and the use of a suitable antiseptic solution to combat the disease and to heal the scalp.

It's a danger signal!

DANDRUFF is a danger signal. If you have it you should do something about it.

Perhaps you never knew it before, but dandruff is a germ disease. It spreads by infection from personal contact, as with the common use of combs and brushes. Children, for instance, are never troubled with dandruff until actually infected by some contact.

Dandruff is a disease difficult to cure but easy to check. It has a tendency to reappear, unless properly treated, and often brings with it the possible loss of hair or actual baldness.

The ideal treatment to combat dandruff conditions is the systematic use of Listerine, the safe antiseptic.

We have received hundreds of unsolicited letters from Listerine users, who are most enthusiastic in their claims for what Listerine will do in this way. If you are troubled with dandruff you owe it to yourself to try it.

The use of Listerine for dandruff is not complicated. You simply douse it on your scalp, full strength, and massage thoroughly. The effect is antiseptic, cleansing and healing. And you will be amazed to see how this treatment, followed systematically, combats dandruff.

Moreover, Listerine will not discolor the hair nor will it stain fabrics.

Not only men but women have become devoted users of Listerine for this purpose—women, particularly, since bobbed hair has been in vogue and has made them more conscious of dandruff if it happened to be present.

Try Listerine some evening when your scalp feels tired and itchy. Dandruff is probably causing the trouble. Apply it generously and then massage vigorously. You will find it a stimulating tonic for the scalp, and in addition to combating dandruff, you will find that it adds that luster and softness to the hair that is so important a part of being well-groomed.—Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, U.S.A.

Senate Ratifies Debt Pacts With Rumania, Latvia and Esthonia

Only President's Signature Is Now Necessary To Conclude Agreements With 3 Nations.

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—Approving the war debt settlements with Latvia, Esthonia and Rumania in rapid succession, the senate today cleared its calendar of all the refunding agreements except that with Czechoslovakia, which will be taken up tomorrow.

Meanwhile the American and French debt commissions adjourned until Ambassador Berenger gives notice that his government has new proposals to offer for those in the original offer found unacceptable to the American commission.

The three agreements ratified today involve a total of $64,195,000 and were put through by even more overwhelming majorities than was the Belgian settlement yesterday and the Italian agreement last week. The Latvian settlement was approved, 50 to 18, and the other two, 51 to 16.

The chief fight was on the Latvia agreement involving only $5,775,000 and interest at 3 percent for the first 10 years and 3 1/2 percent thereafter.

Senator Smoot explained the $5,000,000 Latvian settlement in detail. Taking cognizance of remarks concerning Latvia's payment of her debts to France and Norway, the Utah senator said both had been paid.

The French debt of 11,811,372 francs was liquidated at a cost of less than $400,000, he said, and the Norwegian indebtedness of $7,750,000 was discharged by paying $700,000.

Pointing out that under the American-Latvian settlement payments were spread out over 42 years, Senator Reed said that all human probability, Latvia would cease to be long before the end of that period.

"Latvia was a province of Russia," he said, "and as such was a part of Russia again. Russia will go to the Baltic sea, just as we frange the land along the gulf. You cannot keep 180,000,000 people from the sea and Latvia will disappear."

Adverting to the Italian settlement, Senator Reed said this would be made the basis of a demand by Great Britain for a revision of her debt settlement.

"England has given assurances that she had no objection to any settlement we make with other nations," Smoot said.

"Who gave those assurances?" demanded Reed.

"The responsible head of the British government," Reed replied.

"Coolidge Signature Next."

Senate action on the Belgian, Italian and Latvian agreements, approved today, was given consideration Monday by Premier Briand and his advisers, with indications that little or no delay was to be expected.

France's plan to start payments at $25,000,000 a year appeared to be the main stumbling block encountered by the American debt commission in considering the ambassador's proposal.

The capillary mission last summer offered to begin the annual installments at $40,000,000, and the ambassador was asked to revise the new program along lines more acceptable to the Americans, who, meanwhile, turned their attention to renewed negotiations with the Jugo-Slavian commission.

New Offer Seen.

Ambassador Berenger immediately communicated with his government, and the likelihood of fresh instructions was disclosed in Paris Monday night after a conference between Premier Briand and the finance committee of the chamber of deputies.

With the idea of linking French payments and German reparations virtually eliminated by the unwillingness of the American commission to accept such a plan, the exchange problem has come to the front to concern the deputies. They were informed by the premier that means were being sought to maintain payments to Great Britain and the United States in harmony with France's capacity to pay.

The American commission held a brief session Tuesday and decided not to meet again until Ambassador Berenger has received further instructions from Paris. Meanwhile Secretary Mellon conferred with a representative of the Jugo-Slav mission, which is endeavoring to reach an agreement on that country's war debt.

Although Ambassador Berenger has been given authority by France to negotiate a funding agreement, it was indicated Tuesday by Secretary Mellon that some new elements had entered into the discussions which probably would require the ambassador to confer further with his government.

He would not say that a counter proposal had been made by the American commission but there were definite indications that the commission had at least put forward substantial suggestions for Mr. Berenger to aid in revising his offer.

HOUSE PASSES DRY REORGANIZATION BILL

to appoint the prohibition bureau chief came up.

"If you were taking enforcement away from the secretary of the treasury you would be doing something," declared Representative Blanton, Texas, one of the dryest of the democrats. "Ever since the republican administration came in prohibition enforcement has been in the hands of Andrew Mellon and the result is that it has never been enforced."

"I have the utmost confidence in the honesty and sincerity of Secretary Mellon," Hershey, Maine, republican, interrupted.

"I have the utmost confidence in the honesty and integrity of Secretary Mellon, too," Blanton retorted. "But I haven't any confidence in his leaning toward the liquor traffic. He is a wet and had one of the largest liquor interests in the country. He is the king of vets."

Cramton, Michigan, republican, and house dry leader, declared that Mellon had gone as far in enforcement as he could under the law.

He appointed General Andrews on a basis of efficiency and he has demonstrated his capacity and he has been successful," Cramton said. "Let's be fair. Don't give a man the hardest job in the country and then criticize him if he doesn't go far enough."

Wayne Wheeler attacked.

"If you dry were logical you would make the prohibition commissioner president of the United States because you think prohibition is the most important thing there is," Wheeler, New York, wet democrat, said. "Why don't you put this prohibition commissioner under the Anti-Saloon league? Wayne Wheeler has been running the prohibition officials all the time, anyway. We are fighting for state sovereignty and we are going to win. The rebellion of the people against this law will defeat your commissioner whether he be under the commissioner of internal revenue, the Anti-Saloon league, or the secretary of the treasury."

Both Lord Tarrington and his corespondent, Mrs. Renie De Vere Humphrey, are defending the suit of Lady Tarrington, former liberal member of parliament, noted for her snappy dress in the house of commons. Geoffrey Scott, attached to the British embassy in Rome, is not expected to defend the suit brought against him by Lady Sybil Majorie Scott, second daughter of the Earl of Desart and a cousin of Viscount Lascelles, son-in-law—by his marriage to Princess Mary—of King George and Queen Mary.

It is not stated whether Viscount Combermere and Brigadier General Claude Raoul Champion De Crespigny—the latter a son of the famous sportsman, Sir Claude Champion De Crespigny—will defend the suits brought against them.

One case that will be followed with interest is the suit of middle-aged wealthy Colonel Ralph Sneyd against his young wife, Mrs. Irene Marguerite Campbell Sneyd, who is defending.

Last year when Colonel Sneyd tried to obtain a divorce, the king's proctor—a sort of official snooper employed to prevent fraud in obtaining divorces—successfully opposed his petition on the ground that Colonel Sneyd had subsequently condoned his wife's misconduct.

Then, she added, some years ago, because of her divorce, her name was not allowed to be published in a year book, published by Trinity church. Bishop Manning, admitting receipt of the letter, said tonight he would not discuss it.

Six British Society Wives To Be Buried Today After Funeral Here

London, April 27.—Six society wives head a list of 709 applicants for divorce at the spring term of the high court, just getting away to a flying start on its seven weeks' grind.

At least three husbands in the "society" list are defending their suits, so fashionable people, now gathered here for the brilliant spring social season, will not be denied the opportunity for gossip.

Major, the Honorable Richard Coke, younger son of the late Lord Leicester, is likewise defending the suit brought against him by his wife, the Hon. Mrs. Doreen Coke.

Lord Chylesmore is defending the suit brought against him by Lady Chylesmore. In this case, the question is one of domicile. Lord Chylesmore, for some years past a rancher in Canada, claims that his wife cannot sue here because he is domiciled in Canada.

Geoffrey Scott, attached to the British embassy in Rome, is not expected to defend the suit brought against him by Lady Sybil Majorie Scott, second daughter of the Earl of Desart and a cousin of Viscount Lascelles, son-in-law—by his marriage to Princess Mary—of King George and Queen Mary.

It is not stated whether Viscount Combermere and Brigadier General Claude Raoul Champion De Crespigny—the latter a son of the famous sportsman, Sir Claude Champion De Crespigny—will defend the suits brought against them.

One case that will be followed with interest is the suit of middle-aged wealthy Colonel Ralph Sneyd against his young wife, Mrs. Irene Marguerite Campbell Sneyd, who is defending.

Last year when Colonel Sneyd tried to obtain a divorce, the king's proctor—a sort of official snooper employed to prevent fraud in obtaining divorces—successfully opposed his petition on the ground that Colonel Sneyd had subsequently condoned his wife's misconduct.

that my donation must not be attributed to me. This is the attitude you took in all my gifts to the Trinity Seaside Home.

"The recognition of a gift is of no importance. We give because it is a blessing to be able to give."

"What I fail to understand is why this change on your part, Dear Bishop."

Mrs. Belmont said that after giving the home to Trinity corporation she was made its president and served from year to year "at the desire of all persons interested in this worthy charity." Then, she added, some years ago, because of her divorce, her name was not allowed to be published in a year book, published by Trinity church. Bishop Manning, admitting receipt of the letter, said tonight he would not discuss it.

RAIL AND TEXTILE MEN ARE INVITED TO MERCHANT MEET

Several prominent railroad executives and manufacturers have been invited to be special guests of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association meeting tonight at the chamber of commerce. They were invited to be present because of the importance of the topic to be discussed by the three speakers of the evening.

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company; R. B. Pegram, of the Southern railway, and Clarence Haverty, of the Haverty Furniture company, will be principal speakers.

Get acquainted with your dentist

To wait until you have a toothache before consulting your dentist is like locking the door after the horse is stolen. Your dentist is interested in preventing trouble in your mouth. Visit him at least twice a year and protect your teeth and health!

D.J. SMYTH D.D.S. Office Hours—9 to 5

4 out of 5 are his Statistics

Your own dentist will tell you that four people out of five past the age of forty are doomed, through carelessness, to contract pyorrhea, the dread disease of the gums that causes rheumatism, loss of teeth and general ill-health.

If you have pyorrhea see your dentist at once and follow his advice carefully.

Forhan's for the Gums is a scientific dentifrice, the formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S. It contains Forhan's

Pyorrhea Liquid which has been used by dentists for the last 15 years in the treatment of pyorrhea.

If used in time Forhan's will prevent pyorrhea or, in co-operation with your dentist, will check its progress.

Brush your teeth with Forhan's night and morning. All druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

FULL STEAM AHEAD!

The order of the sea in every great endeavor is "full steam ahead!" That means to put every ounce of power into action toward the goal.

Today the city bond commission is to meet for organizing the program of civic improvements for which the people have cheerfully bonded themselves and their heirs to the fine figure of $8,000,000. The work thus cut out for council and the associated commission is large in content and supreme in importance. Under the chairmanship of William Candier, trusted and progressive civic leader, the people have fullest confidence that their wishes and welfare will be successfully accomplished.

First in order in the public's desire is for quick action and realization.

They want more and better schools, because they need them now. They want the waterworks system enlarged. They want extended sewers because the growing city demands them now, and because the health of the city must not be jeopardized by outgrown disposal plants.

They want the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts because the passing throngs of day and night need them imperatively and now.

They want the new city hall because their civic pride is offended by the present inadequate facilities.

The base line for the commissioners to lay down today is that "now is the accepted time to go forward whole-fronted and full steam ahead!"

The bonds are validated, the money for the first year's work is to be available on July 1, the work to be done is delineated, and the high duty of the commission is to carry on with business diligence and speedily supply these pressing wants of the city. Such action will thrill every vital interest of our people, inspire new faith and enterprises, put large working forces in daily operation, spread fair wages and profitable trade throughout the community and transform the summer from languor to lusty movement.

The men of the commission have been chosen to cooperate with council in directing and delivering these large and needed increments to Atlanta's wealth and welfare and The Constitution, for its constituency that so heartily supported the bond issues, believes they will go forward to the finish with vigor and fidelity to their public trust.

SPANISH WAR PENSIONS.

It is reported from Washington that the president intimates the veto of a pending bill to increase the pensions of veterans of the Spanish-American war. The reason would be that it would reduce the savings by his economy plans. The news will be distressing to a large body of most worthy dependents upon the justice and gratitude of the nation. If our government has any beneficiaries of direct aid from the public funds whose claims are fairly irresistible they are the invalid veterans of the war with Spain.

Nearly 28 years ago over a quarter million men of young and mature ages answered the call to arms, disciplined in crude and unprepared camps, followed the flag to the fever-ridden, spoliated, starved island of Cuba, to Porto Rico and to the Philippines. They fought against strong fortresses, through infested swamps and tropical jungles against cruel enemies, some of whom were the wildest savages. They suffered from the worst conditions of field service in foreign environments and were victims of official incompetencies and corruptions in their home gov-

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Lifting Their Children.
The military dictator of Spain, General Primo de Rivera, has recently been placed among "the leading statesmen of today, who are helping to shape our new world." As a sample of the profundity of the mind of this man, who guides the destinies of a great people, an excerpt of a remarkable after-dinner speech of his before a gathering of his own appointees and as reported by El Sol of Madrid, is herewith submitted: "But I am discouraged, having the full support of the crown? No, I do not feel at all discouraged, neither do I feel any concern on account of the small groups of emigrating politicians. What I should be discouraged if when I go about town women lift up their children so that they may know me and learn to love me. I am not discouraged, I am the savior of the motherland? Why is it I have you? If I went out alone every Sunday to walk through the streets, wearing my Spanish cloak, those are the days when I get the most unmistakable popular ovations? On those days I meet the merry, young, charming little dressmakers, who come off by the folds of my cloak to see if I am indeed Primo de Rivera, a man who does not represent to them the danger of youth, but who signifies rather one who is always ready to devote the last years of his life to the service of the motherland which they, without even suspecting it, so genuinely represent."

SCHOOL POLITICS AGAIN!

The pending proposal in the board of education to usurp the power of the superintendent of the schools to designate the assistants of his office is an attack upon the normal and necessary conduct of the public school system. It should be resisted and defeated by a parental protest so aggressive and unanimous as to be compulsory.

In no serious department of government can an executive function satisfactorily be hampered by lieutenants who are not in harmony with his spirit and his discretion. Where cross-purposes operate in a system administration is wrecked, organization is disintegrated, and armies even are defeated. A public school system is a delicate and indivisible civic mechanism. It cannot be safely entrusted to minds not religiously set upon its conservation and to hands that do not coordinate in its operation.

The people of this city are proud of their schools. They wish them to go on to nearer perfection under the policy that has built them to their present efficiency. That policy has been to keep them above the plane of politics and immune from the personal greed and graft of the day's demagogues. By that safeguarding the schools have been preserved and forwarded until they have scarcely any peers in the republic.

No sound reason of principle, either of economy or greater efficiency, calls for stripping the superintendent of the right to designate the assistants upon whose abilities, fidelity and loyalty he must rely to render to the people the high and valuable services for which he is employed.

The new rule proposed smells too strongly of petty ward politics and personal purposes. But for whatever end it is proposed, it will attain will be the confusion and disordering of a system now operating smoothly and successfully.

It is time for the parents of the city to take note of this dangerous innovation and stand on guard to protect their schools from its perils.

THEY WON'T JAR LOOSE.

The federal constitution declares that representatives in the congress "shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within the union according to their respective numbers."

The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years.

The custom has been to apportion the representatives very soon after each decennial census was verified and reported. The last census was in 1920 and it was expected that reapportionment would almost immediately follow it. But not so. Six years nearly have elapsed, two congresses have since been chosen, and the apportionment of members of the house remains the same as after the census of 1910.

Now, in spite of every just appeal for a new deal among the states the house census committee refuses to report a reapportionment bill, but very bitingly holds that congress is under no constitutional obligation to reconstruct the house of representatives every decade.

The decision will be surprising and disappointing in many quarters. By any equitable distribution several states would certainly gain members and certain other states would lose one or more of present delegations. In the case of Georgia there would be neither gain nor loss. But the matter of gains or losses is not the vital one in the situation.

The real objection to this refusal to reapportion the house is that the population basis is destroyed. Some states are over-represented and some under-represented. The virus of the inequity extends into the electoral college and poisons the principle upon which the presidency was established.

Adorable Little Cabbages.

People always believe that they live in the most exceptional epoch of history. Everything that is new seems extraordinary, so says a Paris professor. Our women, who have had their hair bobbed and shingled ask mischievously what would our ancestors say could they see us now? A matter of fact our ancestors would not be in the least surprised, he replies. And he quotes from the diary of the estimable Madame de Sevigne, who wrote of mothers and grandmothers for that matter. Under date of March 18, 1671, she wrote: "Madame de Nevers came in today with her hair cut in such a manner that I had to laugh. You must believe that I follow the fashion and do not laugh easily. She had her hair cut off and her head looked after all like an adorable little cabbage." The fashion changed later. But bobbed hair came in vogue again during the revolution, when the Girondin ladies cut off their own locks before having their heads cut off by Madame Guillotine. The fashion then was called to have your hair "a la victime." From victim it came to victim. Guided by this example, the professor thinks that wigs are about due again. For the sake of the adorable little cabbages let us hope this will not be till after summer.

A "Voortrekker."

Dirk Janse, one of "Oom" Paul Kruger's redoubtable warriors, died on his farm in South Africa recently, as confirmed a Roer beer on the day when he rode the veldt with his Christian Piet Cronje. Dirk was one of the few surviving "Voortrekkers" that is pioneers, who accompanied Kruger on his memorable journey into the interior and to escape British encroachments on the Transvaal. He was known far and wide as a lion hunter and during the battles with the Zulus and the Hottentots distinguished himself with almost superhuman courage. Of a Sunday he generally preached a sermon to the boys and girls around his farm until failing health prevented him from being an active Calvinist. To the Boer nation had fallen the spiritual heritage of the people of Israel, the elect among the peoples of the earth, in Dirk's theology. And Kruger was worse than perfidious Albion, it was the devil's own handmaid and the late Mr. Joseph Chamberlain was anti-Christ.

Early Traces.

Father Lejeune of Klamloops, a pioneer missionary in British Columbia and probably the foremost linguist of native Indian dialects, has reported to the government of Canada that words of Hebrew origin are found in most languages of the province. He writes that among the Thompsons there were such customs as the burnt offering of food and fasting from sunset to sunrise in times of stress. The priest's conclusion is that Hebrews lived in America as early as between the years 1100 and 1600 A. D. He advises that the quarterly study should be made "before old men and women of Indian tribes who are today in a position to recount the customs and beliefs of the original peoples of British Columbia have passed away." He advances the theory that following establishment of a Jewish community at Kailash, China, Chinese expeditions brought Jews to the Pacific coast of North America.

OPINION IS DIVIDED ON REPORT PRINTING

Attorney General George M. Nathan Tuesday had not been called upon to decide whether state department reports must be printed this year, though it had been reported that a difference of opinion on this point would be referred to him for settlement. Nathan, who is expected to be intended for submission to the legislature, which does not meet again until 1927, Governor Walker holds that it is not necessary to print departmental reports and has so instructed the printing department. He takes the position that reports of 1925 and 1926 should be combined in one volume for the legislature of 1927.

Some state officials, however, including Controller General Wright and Secretary of State S. Gust McLeod, are reported to have been specifically provided for printing of annual reports of their departments, not only for the legislators but for information of county tax officials.

A. B. & A. HEARING SET FOR SATURDAY

Hearing of a petition of bond holders of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad to foreclose a mortgage on that line to clear the way for sale of the road to the Atlantic Coast Line, will be held next Saturday, it was announced Tuesday by Federal Judge Samuel Siler.

Certain stockholders of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic are endeavoring to prevent foreclosure of the mortgage at this time. Both sides will be represented by attorneys at the hearing.

Aged Negro Dies.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28, 1926.

THE WHITE METAL BOGY.

From a quiet corner of an apnup has come a lot of noise warning the world that aluminum cooking and kitchen ware is poisoning or injuring to those who use it. Traced to its source, the noise seems to emanate from the office of a dentist, who can tell a movie—I mean a moving story of how he himself—well it is just the old familiar yarn we have heard so often from deluded or deluding "discoverers" who have succeeded in "curing themselves" after divers and sundry doctors have "given them up," and so on.

This amazing dentist, who would have us dump all our nice white kettles and pots in the ash can, solemnly declares in the course of his narrative that the people that tried the remedy got well in from four to eight months. After 1,000 people were cured in that manner, I found that other troubles, such as heart trouble, high blood pressure, etc., were cured. In short, the simple matter of junking the kitchen ware proved a panacea, a cure all, according to this pretentious dentist.

The misanthropic dentist avers he is not just giving play to a lively imagination. No, indeed; he has scans of scientific authorities who are only waiting until they can screw up courage to speak openly about the harmful effect of the white metal kettles and pans. But when pressed to cite any medical, hygienic or chemical authority to back up such a horrible assertion, the muttering dentist delivers about 1,600 words of impassioned argument (which look very good in a patent medicine booklet) and finally a chemist of standing, but fails to specify where or when the lone chemist has recorded his opinion or suspicion about aluminum.

I have no abiding affection for the aluminum trust, if such there be. My motto is "dust bust all trusts." On the other hand, I have not the slightest contempt for the good old tin ware, iron kettles or enameled pans or earthen vessels I was brought up on. No doubt some tin is dissolved out of nearly every kind of fruit or vegetable which is heated or cooked in such a container, and probably such tin enters our food does so in particular. Unquestionably some aluminum is likewise dissolved in the acid fruits or vegetables cooked in aluminum vessels. But withal, as long as the food tastes right we should worry. We've got more or less tin, aluminum, zinc and copper in our food, and not to mention cheaper metals.

Since this dentist launched his wild propaganda against the use of aluminum ware, I have had numerous long-winded communications from earnest but misguided folks who would discover that the dentists, chemists, physiologists and nutrition authorities are all wrong about it and aluminum is a terrible plague on our race, and these military recruits demand to know whether I have conducted researches to learn about this. Heck, no, I have no institute for such research, but I can tell you let anybody offer me a big hunk of lemon pie baked in and served in an aluminum pie plate—just let 'em offer me one.

DR. DODGE BEGINS SERIES OF TALKS ON "BEATITUDES"

A series of talks on "The Way to Personalities" will begin tonight at the Central Congregational church at 8 o'clock by the pastor, Dr. Witherston Dodge. Basis of talks will be "The Beatitudes of Jesus."

Believing that these beatitudes of Jesus define the true character of the Christian, Dr. Dodge says he will try to set forth their meaning in the terms and terminology of the thought of the day.

Subjects of talks, on successive Tuesday nights until the series is completed, follow: "Divine Discernment," "The Way that Succeeds," "The Passion for Rightness," "Considerateness," "The Sense of Direction," "The Peace-Makers," and "The Power of the Word."

Talks will be given in the woman's parlor of the church, unless the room is found to be too small—in which event the basement will be used.

GOAL CONFERENCE IS RESUMED TODAY

London, April 27.—Resumption of direct negotiations between English coal miners and operators has been arranged for today, according to reports from Wednesday afternoon.

While only three days remain until time for the threatened coal strike to begin, the government is still hoping that in an eleventh hour agreement may stave off the threatening industrial catastrophe.

A preliminary meeting of operators and miners Tuesday night at Wednesday afternoon as the time for formal resumption of direct negotiations.

Coca-Cola Pays Regular Quarterly Dividend of $1.75

The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on the common stock and the final dividend of $3.50 on preferred stock were declared, payable July 1 to stockholders of record at the close of business, June 15, by the directors of the Coca-Cola company at their meeting Tuesday.

Earnings for the first quarter were reported as $1,738,097.70, and are considered satisfactory by the officials.

Recommendations were made to the stockholders to reduce the authorized capital of the company from 500,000 shares of common stock, no par value, to 100,000 shares of preferred stock, $100 par value, to 500,000 shares of common stock, no par value, with a preferred dividend of $100,000.00.

The quarterly statement of the company follows: For the period from January 1 through March 31, 1926—gross receipts, $5,926,742.17; operating expenses, $3,809,010.79; operating profit, $2,117,731.38; less net miscellaneous income, $578,735.68; net income for first quarter before federal income taxes, $1,738,097.70.

NEGROES REHEARSE FOR MUSICAL SHOW

Programs for this season were completed by Southern Grand Opera company at a meeting of the directors in Bethel A. M. E. church Tuesday afternoon. The program will be composed of leading singers and musicians of the south and east according to a statement by Rev. B. R. Holmes, secretary and manager of the association.

The Atlanta orchestra, under the direction of Jesse Murphy, a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory of Music, will render the opening number with a medley of songs.

Three-fourths of the program will be featured by negro spirituals and melodies. Special seats will be arranged for white patrons at the performance in the auditorium May 18.

ATTACKS ON PEKIN REPULSED WITH LOSS

London, April 27.—(Special.)—The Pekin correspondent of the Daily Mail reports that the allied forces of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin and General Wu Pei-Fu have made three attacks against the bill positions of the Kuomintang (nationalist) army, but met with disastrous results. Their casualties are given as "several thousand."

"DOGWOOD PATROL" WILL GUARD PARK AGAINST VANDALS

A mounted "dogwood patrol" was established at Lakewood Amusement park Tuesday to guard against further destruction of dogwood trees in bloom in the picnic groves at the park.

The patrolmen, riding over the grounds on horseback regularly between noon and midnight while the resort is open each day, have been sworn in as special policemen and empowered to make arrests for any damage to dogwood trees, it was stated by Oscar Mills, secretary of the South-eastern Fair association.

The patrol will be continued, in addition to the regular police force, as long as dogwood trees are in blossom. The $25 reward offered for apprehension of persons who raid dogwood trees earlier in the week, had not been claimed Tuesday.

MAIER & BERKELE DISPLAY OF SILVER SEEN BY HUNDREDS

Displayed in the window of Maier & Berkele, Inc., 31 Whitehall street, is a very beautiful and interesting period design of a lionel silver. The minut is an unusual pattern and most distinctive in design and is wrought from sterling silver and shown in its many stages of production.

"This design of silver is inspired by the traditions of the southern and American people are realizing more and more the artistic value of this lovely design and are most enthusiastic over the minut in sterling silver," said H. A. Maier, president of the company.

Interior decorations everywhere are charmed with this distinctive design of early America and are using in the decorations of homes of distinction. The minut is a beautiful and graceful dignity is unexcelled.

"Maier & Berkele, Inc., has a collection of silver in this period design that would charm the heart of the heart of those who are fastidious of the personal use and artistic adornment of their homes by sterling silver."

FIVE AGED VETERANS HONORED AT MILLER

Miller, Ga., April 27.—(Special.)—Memorial day was celebrated here Monday at the High School auditorium with exercises sponsored by the Waycross home chapter, United Daughters of Confederacy. The Miller chapter of the organization, which was organized at the opening and at the close five veterans of the sixties were entertained at luncheon.

ALPHANUM HEADS SELECT MASONS

ALPHANUM HEADS SELECT MASONS

Macon, Ga., April 27.—(Special.)—The eighty-third annual assembly of the Georgia grand council of Royal and Select Masons in session in the Macon lodge rooms today elected W. S. Richardson, of Atlanta, illustrious grand master.

Other officers elected include: Deputy grand master, N. H. Ballard, Brunswick; illustrious grand principal conductor of works, J. T. Waldrop, Griffin; grand treasurer-recorder, H. G. McLean, Macon; grand captain of guard, F. O. Miller, Fort Valley; grand conductor of council, J. C. Standifer, Blakely; grand marshal, W. G. Menor, Gainesville; grand chaplain, the Rev. John Swain, Sale City; grand sword, Lee Wages, Macon.

The only important business to come before the assembly for election was the raising of the per capita tax from 50 cents per member to 75 cents per member and the passing of a rule that no council in the future may be organized unless there are 20 or more who petition for the degrees.

SIX INSTITUTIONS OF STATE AUDITED

Six audits covering activities of as many state departments and institutions—some for a two-year period—Tuesday were filed in the governor's office by State Auditor Sam J. Slate.

The reports cover the state banking department, state board of health, department of corrections, state college at Milledgeville, Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville and the State School for Mental Defectives at Gracewood, Richmond county.

In his report on the state sanitarian at Milledgeville, Auditor Slate says that the state board of health, in its annual report, in receipts and disbursements of state money are covered in the six audits.

In his report on the state sanitarian at Milledgeville, Auditor Slate says that the state board of health, in its annual report, in receipts and disbursements of state money are covered in the six audits.

The state banking department audit shows receipts of $70,221.21 and disbursements of $60,165.81, compared to 1924 receipts of $61,001.77 and disbursements of $50,370.23. High praise is given the accounting system at the institution.

The state department of geology shows receipts of $19,743.58 in 1925 and $12,113.78 in 1924, with disbursements of $17,534.81 in 1925 and $11,900.02 in 1924. Books of the department are neatly kept, it is stated and the system of recording advances and expenses is specially commended.

The state board of health, also commended for the accuracy and completeness of its records, received $107,889.61 and disbursed $94,078.84 in 1925 compared to receipts of $100,428.88 and disbursements of $85,387.93 in 1924.

Receipts of the State College for Women at Milledgeville during 1925 were $252,347.45, with disbursements of $257,330.19, leaving a balance on hand of $35,982.28. Receipts included the state maintenance appropriation of $115,000; the state extension appropriation of $25,000, and a special state appropriation of $120,000 to replace a burned building. The city of Milledgeville donated $22,900 to the school, and insurance collected on the burned building amounted to $41,011.45. Disbursements included $100,162.20 for new buildings and equipment. The efficient and economical basis upon which President M. H. Richardson is conducting this institution is highly praised, and Miller S. Bell, treasurer, is complimented for the accuracy of his books.

The corps of teachers appears ample and well staffed, the audit declares, "and they seem to be interested in their work and the general success of the school. The plant is modern and kept in the best of repair. The new buildings now being erected will be a great improvement to the present overcrowded conditions."

The State School for Mental Defectives at Gracewood had an income in 1925 of $22,425.45, including the state appropriation of $25,000; profit from the operation of a farm and dairy of $2,023.65, and entrance fees and donations. Operating expenses are placed at $28,322.78, showing a deficit of $113.24. All monies are accounted for, the audit states, and books are neatly and correctly kept.

DERRICK REELECTED AS COURT SHERIFF

Sheriff P. Wesley Derrick, of the state court of appeals, has been re-elected by the judges of that court for a six-year term beginning October 1, 1926, according to a certificate of election sent to the governing body Tuesday. He has already been sworn in for his new term.

Sheriff Derrick has held his office for almost 20 years and is well known all over the state. He lives at 200 Lee street. The appellate court bench complimented him on the faithful discharge of his duties in connection with his reelection.

ROCK ISLAND BUYS MEMORIAL COINS

The Rock Island railroad, one of the best-known lines in the west, with headquarters in Chicago, has purchased 4,000 Stone Mountain Memorial coins, it was announced Tuesday afternoon at the offices of the Stone Mountain Memorial association. This purchase follows the recent purchase of 4,000 coins by the Missouri Pacific railroad, 4,000 by the Frisco lines and 4,000 by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad.

Purchases by these western roads were brought about by efforts of the St. Louis coin sale campaign committee, backed by the Stone Mountain Memorial association and the governors of the southern state.

Winston-Salem Bank Closed.

Winston-Salem, N. C., April 27.—(Special.)—The Merchants Bank and Trust company here failed to open its doors for business today because the state bank examiner is in charge.

Officials were in conference for several hours, but no statement has been issued.

Y. W. C. A. OPPOSES DRY LAW CHANGES

Milwaukee, Wis., April 27.—(AP)—Definitely aligned by their action today with the forces opposing the attempt to modify the Volstead act, and proponents of world-wide peace, the Young Women's Christian Association of the United States of America completed its biennial task today.

Acclaimed by resolutions as the "epoch making convention," the session that opened last Wednesday concluded this afternoon after the 1,500 delegates from 850 cities of every state in the union had completed the closing routine business.

Oppose Beer and Wines. Speculation concerning the attitude the women would assume towards what was pronounced as "a serious situation in the United States," was terminated when the convention by rising vote expressed opposition to the sale of light wines and beer.

By resolution they expressed belief that the sale of light wines and beer would not only bring back the saloon in some form but would tend to nullify the 18th amendment. They pledged the hearty cooperation of the Y. W. C. A. "not only for law enforcement, but for the building of intelligent public sentiment for law observance."

The outstanding among the subjects that will be studied by the national board is the plan for the out-lawry of war.

State Legislation.
The associations endorsed state legislation leading toward improving woman's working conditions as part of the Y. W. C. A. program. They will seek the establishment by each state of an eight-hour day, abolition of night work and a minimum wage. Continued support of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution and the movement to create federal department of education was given.

FOOTBALL STAR INDICTED BY JURY

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Surrounded by a score of fraternity brothers and holding a sheaf of telegrams recording the faith in him maintained by his friends, Alexander R. Hodges, former star athlete of the University of Kansas, stood smiling in court today as the grand jury indicted him for first degree robbery.

Well-dressed, chatting with his friends, Hodges presented an appearance in striking contrast to the night of his arrest. Then he was frightened and nervous, giving way to tears at frequent intervals, and so desirous of hiding his identity that he threw his fraternity pin away in a prison wash room. He later retrieved it.

Caught After Chase.
Hodges was a star football and basketball player and a middleweight boxing champion at Kansas university prior to his graduation last April 20 after he had been chased through the streets for three blocks and finally fled by the hurried night-stick of a pursuing patrolman.

He was charged with having held up a restaurant cashier and stolen $240. After his arrest that amount of money and a cigarette case shaped like a pistol was found on him. Police said he told them that he had almost no money left and that when he went into the restaurant and saw the cashier counting bills he acted on an impulse to commit the robbery.

Among the testimonial telegrams received by Hodges were expressions of sympathy and faith from former schoolmates, fraternity brothers, and officials of the university. They all testified to the prisoner's good character and expressed amazement at his present predicament. He will be arraigned on the indictment tomorrow.

Among the telegrams received was one from the Real Estate Mortgage & Trust company of Chicago and St. Louis, by whom Hodges was employed last summer. The company wired instructions to draw on them for any funds necessary for his defense and offered him his old job back.

"I would rather die than have my mother know about it," Hodges said in court. He was arraigned under the name of Frank Baker, which he gave to police after his arrest in an effort to hide his identity.

Hodges' lawyer made public a telegram which he said Lawrence Morris, a lawyer living in Peabody, N. Y., had received from Chancellor E. H. Lindley of the University of Kansas, in which the chancellor said the former college student "bore the finest reputation here as a student and athlete," and that it was "incredible that he should commit the crime alleged."

"No desire to shield him if guilty, but to testify to our faith in him," concluded the telegram.

After his arrest, Hodges, according to the police, said he rode a cattle train from his home in Chicago, then came to New York, and being without funds, undertook a holdup.

NEW MILK ORDINANCE WILL BE ENFORCED

Councilman W. B. Saunders, of the twelfth, chairman of the sanitary committee of council, announced Tuesday that beginning Saturday he and his committee will put Atlanta's new milk ordinance into effect. Rigid enforcement in compliance with all provisions will be demanded.

"I want to put milk dealers on notice that any laxity which may exist in complying with every detail of the new ordinance will be met with proper enforcement machinery," Mr. Saunders said.

The new ordinance imposes stringent regulations on the handling of milk and requires that all dealers in powdered milk products so label the commodity.

MAN SENTENCED HERE IN STOLEN CAR CASE

R. E. Chandler Tuesday was sentenced to serve from four to 10 years on Fulton county charging when he entered pleas of guilty to charges of transporting a stolen automobile from Sharpsburg, La., to Atlanta and of forging a bill of sale and reselling the car here. Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, passed sentence.

The defendant pleaded guilty to theft and forgery. Assistant Solicitor General John Hudson represented the state.

Chinese Play Will Feature Program of Playcrafters

Miss Virginia Irene Robinson (left) and Miss Katrina Van Pool in the costumes they will wear in "The Thrice Promised Bride," Chinese play, one of a trio of one-act plays to be presented by the Playcrafters Thursday night at the Woman's club auditorium.

An attractive Chinese fantasy will be included on the program of the Playcrafters, who are to present three one-act plays Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock at the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium. This play, "The Thrice Promised Bride," by Cheng Ching Hsiang, has been published in many well-known American magazines, and has been included in the collection of one-act plays by Frank Shay, who selected it as the most representative Chinese one-act play of modern times.

His second attempt, the play to be presented Thursday night, is based on a Chinese legend, and will be done in a Chinese fashion, adhering to all rules of the Chinese stage. The performance is sponsored by the Woman's Civic club of West End.

The American Home

There is a chorus going up from all parts of the United States that home, as a constructive element of American life, is a disappearing factor. A certain per cent of this we discount wholly, but the old adage that "where there is smoke there must be fire," still holds. Smokeless fires there may be, but there has never been smoke without some fire. The possibility is, therefore, that if there is more criticism of the home today, there is more cause for criticism.

The Better Homes movement has undertaken the study of the situation, to inaugurate a campaign of education and inspiration which will restore to America that God-given citadel from which our very civilization springs. Their demonstrations in many cities—our own included—are designed to teach the American woman to meet wisely and efficiently all the foregoing criticism.

Since God gave the woman to Adam, she found a cave, swept it out, hung a curtain of foliage before the opening, and established the first home. The fundamental principle of home-making has not changed. It has broadened and strengthened to meet ever-changing conditions, but its standards have remained the same.

Repeating to ourselves the trite saying that "the child of today is the citizen of tomorrow," it is the aim of the Better Homes movement to so demonstrate the value of real home-making that we may send this new citizen out into the world prepared to meet the responsibilities which await him. To send him out from the American home, whose four walls inclose the whole hope of the future and to which the whole legacy of the past trusts its security, the best home in all the world—the real "American home."

MRS. ALONZO RICHARDSON.

CLUB MEMBERS HEAR 'BETTER HOME' PLANS

Atlanta's part in "Better Homes" demonstrations all over the country was explained at Kiwanis, Lions and Better Films club luncheons Tuesday in talks by Mrs. Newton C. Wing, general chairman of the Atlanta committee.

Talks by Mrs. Wing were principal events at each club and only routine matters were discussed in business sessions. Mrs. Wing hurried from one club to the other in an effort to keep her engagements and in addition to her talks she distributed booklets of facts of the local campaign at all clubs.

Many talks by prominent Atlantans will feature demonstrations at various Better Homes today. Tonight will be chamber of commerce night at Home No. 1, and speakers will be W. D. Hoffman, Roy McCraw, representing the senior chamber of commerce; Fitzhugh Knox and C. F. Deiter, of the Junior chamber of commerce, and Miss Susan Walter, president of the woman's division.

This afternoon at the "Budget Banquet," 40 Brookridge avenue; Elmer P. Hardy, secretary of boys' work at the Y. M. C. A., will give a talk and music will be furnished by the Samuel Luman school orchestra. Mrs. T. D. Albright will direct the musical program.

Members of the Boulevard Park Civic club will be "house mothers" at Home No. 1, today and the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs will be hostesses. Miss Nellie Emery, of the American Homes club, will be chairman.

The radio program of the Better Homes demonstration today will include a talk on "The Boy and the Father in the Home," by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, and a special musical program. Better Homes talks will be made at other Atlanta civic clubs during the week in addition to addresses at Homes Nos. 1 and 2.

HUBBARD, HANCOCK MOVE INTO PLANT FOR NEW BUSINESS

Offices of Hubbard and Hancock company, printers and engravers, have been moved into the company's new plant at 63 North Pryor street, according to an announcement Tuesday.

New machinery and new equipment have been added and the company has installed many improvements for new orders in printing, engraving and publishing.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

ATLANTA WILL JOIN HEALTH DAY'S WORK

Atlanta Tuesday formally joined other leading cities of the nation in a drive to make May 1 National Health day against accidents. Mayor Walter A. Sims issued a proclamation calling on citizens to make Atlanta safe for children by helping prevent accidents.

Acting Chief of Police E. L. Jett said police will assist.

Dr. Elizabeth Broach, chairman of health for the fifth district, Georgia Federation of Women's clubs, of which Mrs. H. G. Hastings is president, is actively in charge of the safety program, which will be continued throughout the year and will be supplemented by efforts to raise the general health standards of children.

On the night of May 1 a roll call of principal cities of the United States will be made by telegraph in order to ascertain which cities went through the day without a single accident. Twenty-five leading civic and patriotic organizations of the country have enlisted in the drive, which is led by the American Child Health association.

Among other bodies which have affiliated with and are actively supporting the campaign are the American Red Cross, American Legion, Boy and Girl Scouts, National Playground and Recreation association, National Amateur Athletic Federation and the National Tuberculosis association.

Before starting to town on a street car built in Atlanta, Mr. Atlanta tells the gardener, who wears overalls made in Atlanta, to plow up the vegetable plot with an Atlanta plow, and pauses to watch "Aunt Sally" polishing the door knocker (made in Atlanta) with Atlanta polish. Leaving the house built of Atlanta brick, with Atlanta-made roofing, floor tile, hardware and painted with Atlanta paint, he lights an Atlanta-made cigarette. At the office he sharpens an Atlanta pencil at an Atlanta desk and looks out of a steel window frame pressed in an Atlanta mill. Remembering the date he phones the druggist to send Mrs. Atlanta a box of Atlanta Candy.

In the meantime Mrs. Atlanta has ordered Atlanta-made cake, salad dressing, peanut butter, bread, meat slaughtered in an Atlanta packing house, coffee roasted in Atlanta, tea and spices packed in Atlanta, and is ready to drive to town in an automobile assembled in Atlanta on tires built with Atlanta woven fabric, to buy a hat made in Atlanta. BOND COMMISSION WILL MEET TODAY

Work on the $2,000,000 authorized to be expended this year in the $8,000,000 bond issue will begin as soon as funds are available, July 1, according to prediction Tuesday by members of the bond commission appointed by Mayor Walter A. Sims to supervise expenditure of the fund. The

TAKE NATURE'S TONIC EVERY MORNING

Thousands have stopped headache in the morning, dizziness, lassitude, unpleasant breath, etc., with California lemon juice in hot water, taken every morning first thing on getting out of bed.

Ment, fish and eggs and starchy foods are acid in reaction in the blood. Lemon, although known as "acid fruit," is alkaline in its reaction in the blood. So if you eat eggs every morning you should take California lemon juice, especially if you are troubled with "acidity" or "high blood pressure."

Try it for ten days and note results—the juice of one California lemon in hot water every morning without fail.

Get a dozen California lemons now—the tart, juicy, practically seedless kind.—Adv.

nal organization meeting of the commission has been called for 3 o'clock this afternoon at 1321 Candler building.

William Candler is chairman of the commission and Henderson Hallman is secretary. The meeting today will be to elect an executive secretary and to name committees to hear requests and decide on improvements according to the allocation of the bond money.

Henson Tatum, secretary to Mayor Sims, and Ed I. Coolidge, who was executive secretary of the bond campaign committee which organized to urge passage of the original bond proposal, have been mentioned prominently for the post of executive secretary. Other than this, no intimation of who the officers will be has been made.

It is expected that five committees will be named to make recommendations to the commission as a whole on expenditure of the five items included in the bond issue. Allocation is as follows:

Schools, $3,500,000; waterworks improvements, $500,000; sewers, $2,000,000; city's part in construction of the "twin-viaducts" over railroad crossings at Prior street and Central avenue, $1,000,000, and city hall, to be located adjacent to the present Fulton county courthouse, $1,000,000.

"The bond commission will hold an organization meeting only, and business matters will not be discussed at this session of the commission," Mr. Candler said. "We are just getting ready to spend as quickly and as judiciously as possible the money voted for the bonds, and this meeting is really of great importance as the committees which will hear delegations and make recommendations to the commission will be named."

"The meeting will be in the form of an executive session in order that the commission can decide without outside pressure matters which are considered of prime importance in the economical expenditure of the bonds funds."

There are 17 members of the commission as follows:
E. A. Warkentin, ward No. 1; J. Jordan, 2; W. A. Verney, 3; W. L. Hancock, 4; E. H. Buckner, 5; Henderson Hallman, 6; R. I. Barge, 7; John M. McCullough, 8; Lawrence McLeod, 9; Nelson T. Spratt, 10; J. P. Wall, 11, and A. J. Brannan, 12. Members from the city at large are: William Candler, Frank Neely, Mrs. R. K. Rambo, C. W. Cunningham and Abe Greenfield.

EPISCOPAL CRUSADE TO BE NATIONWIDE

The services of 100 bishops, priests and outstanding laymen of the Episcopal church throughout the country will be enlisted in a nation-wide evangelistic crusade to be conducted along lines similar to prelection campaigns of political parties.

The campaign, plans for which were revealed here Tuesday, will be launched in Atlanta today at a conference between the Rt. Rev. Henry J. Mikell, D.D., bishop of Atlanta, and the Rt. Rev. Thomas C. Darst, bishop of East Carolina, with members of the Atlanta Diocesan commission on Evangelism participating. Bishop Darst, originator of the plan for the "Bishop's Crusade," and chairman of the recently appointed national commission on evangelism, after the Atlanta conference will leave on a trans-continental tour, holding similar conferences along the way. Initial plans will be made at these conferences for the drive which will be started in January of 1927.

Will Tour Nation.
Bishop Darst will visit a dozen strategic points on his tour, holding conferences in New Orleans, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Spokane, Seattle and cities in the north and middle west.

He will seek appointment of commissioners in the various dioceses to promote the crusade, will enlist the services of speakers and confer with ecclesiastical authorities to plan the actual campaign.

Tentative plans as revealed here include the voluntary enlistment of a group of the outstanding bishops of the church with 60 of its most distinguished priests and laymen. The speakers will be organized into squads which will cover designated areas until the entire nation has participated in the series of meetings.

NEGRO BADLY HURT WHEN WHITE YOUTH HITS HIM WITH TILE

A negro, identified by police as James Alford, is near death in Grady hospital with a fractured skull, said to have been inflicted by a white youth, a piece of tile at Butler street near Decatur street.

Call Officers M. R. Johnson and J. A. Corley, who investigated the affair, were told by witnesses that the negro was injured by a white youth, said to have struck Alford after the latter left his wagon and was approaching the white youth in a threatening manner.

The negro was unable to tell anything of the alleged fight after being carried to the hospital. His condition was reported serious by doctors. A case was made against the white man as bystanders told police he struck the negro in self-defense.

Mrs. Wright 'Regrets' 'Advertising Cars' In Memorial Parade

Mrs. William A. Wright, president of the Ladies' Memorial association, was indignant Tuesday because several so-called "advertising cars," she said, had broken into the Memorial day parade Monday afternoon.

"I was utterly amazed to see these cars in the parade, commercializing an observance that ought to be held sacred to every southerner," she said. "People have been calling me to know if the association gave any such permission, and I just want the public to know that this was not the case."

Zionist Heads Plan To Add New Members To Local Organization

The Zionist district of Atlanta, now engaged in an educational campaign for the strengthening of the Zionist organization, plans to increase its present membership of 275 members to 1,000 members, according to announcement Tuesday by leaders.

This growth is in line with the general growth of the Zionist movement in America, which, together with its affiliated branches, Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization; Order Sons of Zion, a Zionist fraternal organization; Avukah, the American Students' Zionist federation, and Young Judaea, an organization of Zionist youth, has a total membership of over 150,000, it is said.

Officers of the Atlanta Zionist district are M. M. Rich, president; M. Scheinbaum, vice president; M. Lichtenstein, chairman Keren Hayesod; J. Saul, chairman United Palestine appeal; Joel Dorian, chairman executive committee; J. Levitas, treasurer; William Saul, secretary.

THE Best Investment in Atlanta Today.

Beautiful
Garden Hills

IN THE HEART OF ATLANTA'S FINEST RESIDENTIAL SECTION

PROFIT in Atlanta real estate has followed Peachtree Road and its tributary streets north, ever since Atlanta was founded. The purchase of property in this zone of growth has invariably returned a quick and substantial profit to investors. Those far-seeing men and women who just a few years ago pioneered in the purchase of Ansley Park and Peachtree Hills lots have lived to see their faith in Atlanta and in Atlanta's North Side rewarded with profits more generous than they had dreamed of.

Today well-located, desirable North Side real estate is in greater demand and is advancing in price more rapidly than at any time in Atlanta's history.

In view of these established facts, the Garden Hills Corporation presents Garden Hills, in the heart of Atlanta's finest North Side residential section, as the best investment in Atlanta today.

Location:

Garden Hills is in the center of Atlanta's profit zone of Real Estate. It is not on the edge of what's going to be, but right in the heart of things that are. It is virtually surrounded by the finest homes and estates in America. Garden Hills lies directly between and faces on Peachtree Road and Piedmont Avenue, Atlanta's two famous thoroughfares north.

Every lot in Garden Hills is quickly accessible to both these two highways. Garden Hills is the last large tract of land lying between Peachtree Road and Piedmont Avenue that is subject to development. Land on all sides of it is in demand—a demand that exceeds the supply—and monthly, and even weekly readjustments of prices upward in this preferred North Side section are not unusual.

Garden Hills is on the Peachtree car line, and within two minutes' ride of one of Atlanta's finest schools, a modern shopping center, and splendid churches.

Price:

Garden Hills property is being offered by the developers. It has not been sold and resold on the market, and its resale values (unlike those of almost any other North Side property) have yet to accrue.

Present prices of Garden Hills property are essentially pre-development prices. They are strictly temporary. Of course they will rise—and quickly. It is not logical to believe that they will remain at their present levels when property on all sides of Garden Hills is priced from 50% to 60% higher. To get a clear conception of the investment values that they offer at their present levels, it is only necessary to compare Garden Hills prices with property nearby.

THESE GUARANTEED DEVELOPMENTS COST YOU NOT ONE PENNY,
YET THEY ADD TO YOUR INVESTMENT

Swimming Pool and Club

A thoroughly modern swimming pool and Country Club building will form the center of the recreation area being built for the exclusive use and enjoyment of Garden Hills home owners. The Club will reflect the substantial character of every Garden Hills improvement. Dressing rooms and lockers will be provided for the convenience of residents using the pool and nearby tennis courts.

Playground

Near the center of the property is the playground. It is more than five acres in extent and is being built with every needed equipment for healthful exercise and ample room for zestful play for Garden Hills children.

Riding Tracks

Surrounding the whole recreation center and winding under the shade of stately pines, is the riding track, soon to feel the crunch of spirited hoofs on gravel.

Landscaping and Improvements

Along Peachtree Road, landscaping and every modern improvement is completed. In the Country Club and Brentwood Sections, winding roads, rustic bridges over rocky brooks, broad parks will make even more exquisite their natural charm. Of course, paving, water, lights and storm and sanitary sewers are being extended to every part of Garden Hills, and these modern improvements will shortly be completed.

Two completely furnished model homes are open for your inspection every day in Garden Hills, from one o'clock in the afternoon to nine o'clock in the evening. Model Home No. 1 is located at 215 Bolling Road, and all furnishings and decorations are by High's. Mrs. Harvey Hill is hostess. Home No. 2 is located at 160 Rumson Road. It is completely furnished by Haverty Furniture Company. Mrs. J. D. Cobb is hostess. Visit these homes this afternoon.

Before You Invest in a Homesite, Investigate Garden Hills

Just across the street from Garden Hills, on Andrews Drive, property is being sold—not being held—for $100 to $150 a front foot. In Garden Hills, in the exclusive Country Club section—the most beautiful estates in Atlanta, high and heavily wooded, facing a winding boulevard—you can buy your choice of estate sites from $60 to $70 a front foot, and some of them have as much as 400-foot depths.

In the fashionable and fully developed Peachtree Road section you can buy a spacious 60-foot lot for as little as $2,500. In the beautiful Brentwood section, lots on wide boulevards—tree-clad building sites—may be bought from $1500 to $2500.

When you buy a Garden Hills lot today at their present prices, you get not only a specified piece of property but you get the profit, too, because the profit is still in them—it has not been traded out.

Where can you find a safer, surer profit for your investment funds? The day you purchase a Garden Hills lot you have a potential profit. This profit will increase more rapidly than in any other investment you can make. Actually, when you buy in Garden Hills, you are buying a part of Atlanta's future, and Atlanta faces the most glorious future in her history.

But if you are to share in the profits, it is necessary that you act quickly. Don't do as thousands of other Atlantans did when Ansley Park and Peachtree Hills were offered them—delay until it is too late. Investigate Garden Hills today. Prove for yourself that these statements are based on facts. Then remember that Garden Hills lots can be bought with a cash payment as small as 15% and the balance can be paid with 60 monthly notes. It won't take you long to decide that nowhere else in Atlanta can such a large return be made upon such a small investment of cash.

Before you invest in a homesite, investigate Garden Hills. Prove to yourself that all the glowing accounts of its location, its beauty, and moderate price are true. If you will do this, we will be perfectly satisfied with your decision.

If you will call our Downtown office, Walnut 5701—197 Peachtree Street—a courteous representative will be detailed to aid you in your inspection and pricing of this property.

CONSTITUTION-SPORTS Battle Tentatively Booked for June 10; Fights Risko May 14

Unless Delaney Changes Mind and Fills Date With Paul, Stribling Will Get Fight, Wires McMahon.

Young Stribling probably will meet Paul Berlenbach in Madison Square Garden for the light heavyweight championship of the world on June 10, according to word received Tuesday by "Pa" Stribling, who, with the rest of the family, including the Mrs., junior and senior, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday night.

Young Stribling probably will meet Paul Berlenbach in Madison Square Garden for the light heavyweight championship of the world on June 10, according to word received Tuesday by "Pa" Stribling, who, with the rest of the family, including the Mrs., junior and senior, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday night.

The elder Stribling received a wire Tuesday from Jess McMahon, matchmaker for Tex Rickard, to the effect that the status of the Berlenbach-Delaney battle is unchanged, and that a Stribling-Delaney affair appears certain.

The Atlanta youngster is booked to meet Johnny Risko, recent conqueror of the light heavyweight titleholder, in the garden on May 14, and it is probable that arrangements for the championship bout will be made while the Striblings are in New York at that time.

Foreign Athletes In Big Track Meet

New York, April 27.—(P)—Sten Peterson, Sweden's great hurdler and Ugo Frigerio, Italy's little walking champion, will participate in the national track championships at Philadelphia July 2 to 6.

Peterson, who has beaten the world record time for the 400 meter hurdles, won four championships in his native land last year in one afternoon.

Both games thrilled the many young fans that were on hand for the big times. The Joe Brown-William Bass game was the biggest attraction of the day. It was closely played, only 11 hits being counted for the total of both teams and four runs.

MY LIFE IN SPORTS

BY CHARLES HOFF (Copyright, 1926, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance)

SIXTEENTH CHAPTER. Athletic experts have frequently wondered if man will ever reach the limit of his athletic ability. It is an interesting theme. Every day the telegraph reports that some record has been broken, and very often it is a record which has been regarded as permanent.

Why, in my opinion, may be the limits. Of course they are only my estimate and everyone is entitled to his own opinion.

Landis-Ban Johnson Feud May Reach Head At A. L. Meet Today

Junior Circuit Owners To Discuss Row Between League Prexy and Commissioner Over Use of Resin By Hurlers.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and Chicago Tribune.)

New York, April 27.—An unexpected meeting of the American league owners has been called for tomorrow at the Hotel Belmont. Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, said he received word from President Ban Johnson today, calling the meeting, but said he had no idea of the subject to be considered.

Dutch Ruether of the Senators. It is reported that Connie Mack, of the Athletics, had appealed to Johnson to stop Washington pitchers from violating Ban's pet prohibition.

At the annual meeting of the league the owners voted to disregard the Landis then announced that any American league pitcher who appealed to him for support insofar as the resin rule was concerned would get it, in spite of Johnson's stand.

Last Saturday Johnson issued a general warning that any pitcher who was caught using resin would be suspended indefinitely and his manager and club held responsible with him.

This warning was directed principally against Walter Johnson and

The fight over resin has come to a head through Eutaw's telling Leland that he could not throw his curve without the use of powder and Leland reported statement to "Dutch" to go ahead and use resin despite Ban Johnson.

There may be some interesting doings here tomorrow.

INSTALLMENT LVII.
PADRAIG RECEIVES A SHOCK.

Celia was glad. It was much better to part as friends. But what was Hilary saying? She couldn't hear. She knew somehow that it was most important she should hear. She must go nearer to him. She struggled to rise, but could not, while all the time he seemed to be withdrawing farther and farther. In her effort to get upon her feet and follow him she woke and looked about her startled.

She must have slept some time, for it was now after sunset. Only a hand of dusky rose merging into lemon divided the light, clear green of the sky, from the darker, dreamier green of the flowing fields. A flash of water lit them for an instant. Dogwood trees in crinolines of bloom went courtesying by. Dogwood. . . O, she was glad they had parted friends. But what was it he had said? She racked her brain to remember; then all at once remembered reality. They had not parted friends. He had not looked at her kindly, but coldly and mockingly. He had been hateful, hateful. And she, too. She recalled her outburst, and tingled at the recollection. But she wasn't sorry for it. She was glad, glad. Soon he would get her letter. . .

She tried to imagine how he would look, how he would feel as he read it. . . and the signature, "Celia Gibbs." Her thought jerked suddenly away, and she seemed to see him standing with Donovan before the closet where her gowns were hung. They would look like dozens of decapitated Celias to him. Each one was "so herself" and

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—

Her First Thought

He went over to the seat beside her and put an arm about her.

"no one else," he had told her. What would he do with them? Burn them? Give them to Donovan? She shook back her hair impatiently, disgusted by the triviality of her thoughts.

The porter came in to tell her of the first call for dinner. Though this made her realize that she was hungry, she felt that she must wait for Padraic. The station at which he was to join her should be near by now, but she had forgotten his name and lost the slip of paper on which he had written it, so she could not ask.

"Don't forget, please," she said to the porter, "when a gentleman asks for Mrs. Moore show him here. He will be Mr. Moore. I shall wait to have dinner with him."

The man said, "No, ma'am, I won't forget," and went out.

A moment after he turned on the electric lights, and the country outside became a more blur of almost invisible greens and browns, which she sensed rather than saw. Later on the young moon would give a pallid light but now was only a luminous feather in the darkling air.

A station stricken by, then another. She began to get very nervous again. This was an express. Suppose Padraic had made a mistake? That it did not stop at the station where he was waiting? Her heart sank, then leaped surprisingly. Even if he didn't come, what fun it would be to go whirling on through the night to freedom! But again nervousness clutched her.

This waiting for him was the worst part of all. She wanted it over. What it was that she wanted over she did not clearly define to herself.

And she was dreadfully hungry. . . .

The second call for dinner had been made. Another station. . . green lights, now red ones. That meant danger. Perhaps they must stop here for some reason. Yes, they were slowing down.

She watched eagerly to see if any one got on the train.

First several passengers descended, then two women and a man swung themselves up from the low platform. But the man wasn't Padraic. Still, it was a very long train. Perhaps he had boarded it farther down. It began to move again, gently, glidingly.

Now it was getting under way. Still no Padraic. In desperation she was just about to ring for the porter and ask him to bring her some food when the door opened.

Padraic at last.

She sat quite still, the electric light in the roof of the car catching the top of her smooth head and throwing her face into shadow. Was he going to be vexed? Was he going to laugh? What was he going to say?

What he said, with a good deal of embarrassment, was:

"I beg your pardon! The porter has shown me into the wrong drawing room."

And he was quickly backing out when Celia cried, half between apprehension and laughter:

"Padraic! Don't you really know me? Has it changed me as much as all that?"

Now she was standing up in the gray ulster, looking like a youth who had chosen—to Padraic's idea—the horrid mode of wearing his hair in a bang. Then as she came a step toward the light caught her face. Celia? whispered Padraic.

He wasn't quite sure even then, and his voice failed him.

"Do I look so very different?" she whispered back, her voice also failing.

Something in his expression alarmed her. He seemed really like a man who compels himself to stare at a ghost. . . as if he, too, would be afraid should he permit himself to be. He found his voice after an eternal moment—a rather husky voice.

"My God!" he groaned. "What have you done to yourself?" he gulped, gulping down mingled emotions. "Your glorious hair! How could you?"

Celia sank down upon the seat opposite him, faint now with both dismay and hunger. He let himself drop upon the one opposite her, gazing and gazing at her until she had hard work to keep from putting her hands over her face. This was different from anything that she had imagined.

"I would rather you'd cut off my right hand. . . ." He was stuttering passionately.

His thoughts flew to Molly Cameron. What, what would she say when, instead of the Melisande, the Melusine, the mysterious being with a crown of fabulous tresses that he had promised to bring with him, he should confront her with this? This tall, crop-haired youth in a gray ulster, almost—by the spiteful irony of fate—almost exactly like his own?

"You are angry?" said Celia in her lowest voice. Her eyes were dilated, and her small face, in contrast, looked like a wedge of white porcelain between the sides of her upturned collar.

"Angry, no!" replied Padraic, trying to recover himself. "Only heartbroken. I so worshiped your glorious hair!"

Then he felt that the occasion was rising against him, not he to the occasion.

He went over to the seat beside her and put an arm about her, taking her hand in his. It was very cold, and she neither yielded to his embrace nor drew away from it, sitting quite still within the circle of his arm.

Nuptials of Note To Feature Social Calendar for Today

The spring season is proving a propitious time for innumerable nuptials of note. At 8:30 o'clock this evening Miss Valeria Manley will be wed to Hunter Pope Cooper at a beautiful ceremony taking place at the handsome Pace's Ferry road home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Doughty Manley.

At the same hour Miss Mona Louise Dudley will become the bride of Lieutenant Jesse Traywick, U. S. A., the wedding to be solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Heywood Dudley, on Ridgecrest road.

A distinguished group of visitors in the city are the delegates attending the National Orthopedic convention now in session here. The social side of the convention will feature a luncheon at the Druid Hills Golf club and a tea at which Mrs. Newton Craig will entertain today in compliment to the wives of the delegates.

The Reserve City Bankers are another distinguished group who will participate largely in the day's social regime. They will be honor guests at the reception at which Mr. and Mrs. James D. Robinson and Miss Jennie Robinson will entertain this afternoon, after which they will attend the brilliant dinner-dance to be given at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

Bridge-luncheons, dinner-dances, recitals and benefit bridge parties will furnish diversion for society throughout the day. Two lovely brides-elect, Miss Katherine Haverly and Miss Louise Dean Stevens, will be honor guests of the day. Among the visitors who will be complimented are Mrs. George W. Hays, of Little Rock, the guest of Dr. Elizabeth Broach, and Mrs. Ralph Davidson, of Montreal, Canada, the guest of Mrs. Charles Atkinson.

Prominent Atlantans Honored at Dinner.

Dr. William Simpson Elkin, Andrew Calhoun and Harry E. English, distinguished Atlanta citizens, were honored on their birthdays at a dinner by Mrs. Harry L. English Monday evening at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

Dinner was served in a private dining room on the mezzanine floor at 7 o'clock.

Carrying out the spirit of Memorial day, small Confederate flags were together with the place cards at each cover.

One of the interesting features of the evening was the beautiful birthday cake embossed with pink and yellow roses and little love birds, with the names of the three honor guests also embossed on it. A candelabra made of icing and exquisitely fashioned held three pink candles for the three guests of honor. Covers were laid for twelve.

Mrs. English was most becomingly gowned in black Chantilly lace over flesh-colored chiffon, with a wonderful French pink carnation with graceful stem.

Miss Haverly Honored At Lovely Luncheon.

Miss Margaret Nelson entertained at luncheon at the dining club Tuesday in honor of Miss Katherine Haverly, a popular bride-elect, whose marriage will be solemnized on May 1, to Russell Bellman.

Hand-painted cards marked the guests' places and covers were placed for the following: Mrs. Len Woodfin Groves, Mrs. Robert T. Jones, Mrs. William Parker, Mrs. John Knox, Miss Jennie Robinson, Miss Margaret Nelson and Miss Katherine Murphy.

Woman's Bible Class To Meet Friday.

The woman's Bible class of the Inman Park Baptist church will hold the April business meeting Friday evening, April 30, at 7:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. C. A. Moody, 29 North Moreland avenue.

Miss McRae Honored At Informal Party.

Miss Virginia Doll was hostess to a number of the younger social contingent at her home on Montgomery Ferry drive in Ansley Park Wednesday in compliment to Miss Sue Jolly McRae, of Florence, Ala., who has been visiting her kinpeople, Mrs. M. J. Van Hook and Miss Lane Van Hook, on Inman circle.

A novel feature of the evening was the manner in which the dance programs were made out, the girls represented moving picture actresses, while the young men were actors of the silent screen and each man danced with each girl present in turn, which created a great deal of jollity and insured evenness of popularity among the dancers.

Those present were: Miss Sue Jolly McRae, of Alabama; Miss Fan Clatt, Miss Lucy Margaret Rector, Miss Miriam Varner, Miss Jeanette Millard, Miss Ruth Morris, Miss

Distinguished Visitors Honored at Affairs.

Mrs. George W. Hays, of Little Rock, Ark., who arrived in Atlanta Monday to visit Dr. Elizabeth Broach and her mother, Miss Anne May Broach, at their home on Highland avenue, was honored by Mrs. H. G. Hastings at an informal luncheon Tuesday at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Covers were laid for four guests. Dr. Broach and Miss Broach entertained a group of close friends for dinner to meet their distinguished guests Tuesday evening.

On Wednesday Mrs. Hays will enjoy a motor ride to Stone mountain, followed by an informal luncheon. Dr. Broach and Miss Broach will entertain Wednesday at "Chateau Johnson-Dulose" tea room in honor of their guest.

Mrs. William Fisch will entertain Mrs. Hays at tea Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Druid Hills Golf club.

Mrs. Hays will return home Wednesday evening.

Fourth District A. and M. Annual Commencement.

Carrollton, Ga., April 27.—(Special.)—The fourth district A. and M. school will hold its annual commencement beginning next Saturday, May 1, and continuing through May 5.

The graduating class, the largest in the history of the school, is composed of 49 boys and girls.

One of the most significant features of the program will be the annual Alumni banquet held on Saturday evening, May 1, at 7 o'clock. One hundred seventy-five are expected on this occasion. Judge J. Wilson Parker, of Fairburn, Ga., and Professor J. H. Melson, of Hogsenville, Ga., will be the speakers at the occasion. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Rev. Frank Quillian, pastor of the First Methodist church of Carrollton, Ga. The commencement address will be delivered by Judge Charles E. Roop, of the Coweta circuit, former chairman of the board of trustees of the school.

The school this year has had an enrollment of 217. The school has graduated 343 boys and girls.

The annual meeting of the board of trustees of which Hon. T. H. Persons is chairman, meets May 5.

Pi Epsilon Sorority To Give Dance.

Cordial interest centers in the announcement of the annual dance of the Pi Epsilon sorority of Woodberry hall, a "Country Blowout" which will be a brilliant event of May 18. It will be given at the Druid Hills Golf club. Five hundred invitations will be issued to the college contingent of Atlanta and out-of-town guests.

The official hostesses for the occasion are: Miss Sarah Hoshall, Miss Margaret Hostwick, Miss Jessie Mayfield, Miss Frances Taylor, Miss Roselyn Moore, Miss Floy Bryant, Miss Guyrena Kelley, Miss Auverne Harper, Miss Elizabeth McKinney, Miss Alma Chavannes, Miss Mabel Elder, Miss Sara Andrews, Miss Kate Rogers, Miss Marion Morgan, Miss Harriet O'Neil, Miss Dorothy Anderson, Miss Dorothy Perkins, Miss Marie Bullard, Miss Edith W.

hams, Miss Katherine Paxton, Miss Ethel Lasseter, Miss Jane Clarke, Miss Betty Stribling, Mrs. Lawrence Bennett and Mrs. Arthur Pernatt.

Mrs. Lawson Thornton Entertains at Luncheon.

Mrs. Lawson Thornton entertained at luncheon at her home on Habersham road on Tuesday, complimenting the wives of the delegates to the annual convention of the American Orthopedic association, which is being held in the city.

Assisting Mrs. Thornton in entertaining were the members of the ladies' entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Thornton is chairman. Others on the committee are: Mesdames Michael Hoke, Montague Boyd, Hal Hentz, Newton Craig, Charles Downman, Charles Boynton, Robert Gregg, Robert Callaway, Russell Porter and William P. Hill.

Adorning the center of the luncheon table was a large silver basket filled with tulips, iris, snapdragons and crabsapple blossoms.

Luncheon Parties At the Biltmore.

Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Fraser, of Ottawa, Canada, were greeted at luncheon at the Biltmore Tuesday by many former friends of the charming Alexa Stirling, who is visiting in Atlanta and are guests of Dr. and Mrs. Alex W. Stirling at their home at East Lake.

Mrs. William R. Huntley, of Buffalo, formerly Miss Janie Speer, of Atlanta, was an attractive guest present at luncheon.

Mrs. William Chandler was hostess at a lovely luncheon Tuesday at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel in honor of Mrs. T. M. Bryan, of Port Lauderdale, Fla., the guest of Mrs. Guy Ayer. The guests included Mrs. Hal Lambdin, Mrs. Robert Jones, Jr., Mrs. Ayer and Mrs. Bryan.

Mrs. H. G. Hastings entertained in honor of Mrs. George W. Hays, Jr., of Little Rock, Ark., inviting to meet her Mrs. Fred Stewart and Dr. Elizabeth Broach.

Mrs. Roswell Ison entertained for Mrs. James Adams, of Clearwater, Fla., and Mrs. Florence Adams, of Huntsville, Ala., inviting Mrs. Dean Christopher and Mrs. Dorothy Nichols to meet her guests.

Mrs. Isaac Marks, of Charleston, S. C., was honor guest in Mrs. J. S. Brail's party. Completing the party were Mrs. Alvin First and Mrs. L. Weichselbaum.

Other guests present at the luncheon hour were Mrs. Bolling Jones, Jr., Mrs. Paul Dobbin, Mrs. A. C. Davidson, of Uniontown, Ala.; Mrs. Julian Chambers, Mrs. Harvey Ellis, of Louisiana; Mrs. Beverly Dubois, Mrs. Ronald Ransom, Mrs. Earl Huntley, Colonel Hamilton Horsey, Raymond Lewis, of Palm Beach; Phil McDuffie, Fred Jeter, Howell Foreman, C. J. Enright, of St. Louis, Mo., and others.

Mrs. H. B. Whitmore Given Luncheon.

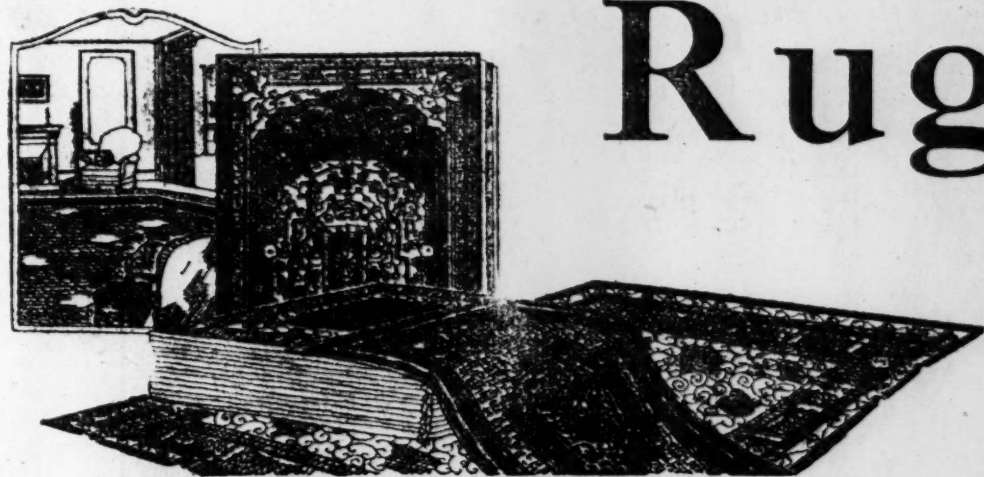

Mrs. H. B. Whitmore, of Hartford, Conn., the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. Ten Eyck Brown, was honored by Mrs. Brown at a beautiful informal buffet luncheon Tuesday at her home.

In the dining room the beautifully-appointed table was overlaid with a Russian lace cover in the center of which was a silver bowl filled with tulips and flag lilies.

Twenty close friends of the hostess were invited to meet the attractive former guest.

Supper Parties Honor Bridal Parties Following Rehearsals

Supper parties took precedence in the form of entertaining Tuesday when the two supper parties honoring brides-elect and groom-to-be followed the wedding rehearsals.

Miss Valeria Manley and Hunter Cooper, whose marriage will be an occasion of brilliant this evening, were complimented by Mr. and Mrs. John McEachern, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Rankin Manley, who entertained at the Capital City club.

The members of the wedding party were seated at a large table placed in the ballroom of the club, while the other guests were seated at smaller tables. An orchestra played beautiful music during the supper courses, also playing for the dancing which followed.

The large table was adorned by the ever by a huge floral wedding bell, small wedding bells made of pastel-colored flowers formed the center decoration of the other tables.

Dudley Traywick.

Preceding the wedding rehearsal of Miss Mona Dudley and Lieutenant Dudley Traywick Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Heywood Dudley, parents of the bride, entertained at a buffet supper at their home on Ridgewood road. The guests included members of the wedding party, the out-of-town guests who will attend the wedding this evening and a few intimate friends.

The lower floor of the home presented a scene of springtime beauty with its masses of fragrant blossoms, a plateau of Dresden-shaded sweet peas and snapdragons formed the centerpiece of the table in the dining room where supper was served.

Mrs. Dudley was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Heywood Dudley, Mrs. and Mrs. Clyde Freeman, She was groomed for the occasion in soft French blue crepe. Miss Mona Dudley wore an attractive figure wearing a modish gown of crisp Cell blue taffeta.

Mr. and Mrs. Sciple Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Black entertained at a buffet-supper Tuesday evening at their home on Northside drive, the lovely affair complimenting Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sciple.

The guests assembled at 7 o'clock. A variety of fragrant spring blossoms adorned the home throughout. Tulips, roses, lilacs and snapdragons in effective arrangement formed the central decoration of the table in the dining room.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Sciple, Mr. and Mrs. Wickliffe Goldsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chalmers, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Dick, Mr. and Mrs. Anna Belser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Black, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robin Adams, Chester B. Blalock, A. Thornwell, Dr. and Mrs. Lettice Childs.

Jewish Women To Meet Today.

Due to various conflicts in time, the date for the April meeting of the Council of Jewish Women has been set for Wednesday, April 28. The meeting will be held at the Pryor Street temple at 3 o'clock.

The delegates from the local chapter to the recent southeastern interstate convention will make their reports to the body at this time. The meeting will then be devoted to memorial services for Miss Rose Brenner, late president of the National Council of Jewish Women, whose recent sad death was a great loss to both the Atlanta section and the national organization.

Mister Mocking Bird

EVERY morning out Ponce de Leon way, where Druid Hills begin, and the dogwood blooms in confusion of starry white, a mocking bird alights aloft in a Lombardy poplar, which sways and courtesies to the rhythmic cadence of the April breeze.

Mr. Mocking Bird begins his operatic matins, pouring out his song like Shelley's lark in the joyous spontaneity of unpremeditated art! He gets no pay for his performance; he sings live-long hours for the sheer ecstasy of singing, for love.

We wish we might keep store as Mr. Mocking Bird sings, for love, without pay, and in the delight of work well done.

Alas, this is a practical world, of earth, earthy, and hard-headed.

As this world is constituted, a successful business, controlled by the idea of rendering genuine service, must take pay and must make profit, otherwise it moves headlong to swift disaster and utter failure.

The difference, however, between the mocking bird and Rich's is not of kind, but of degree. Since we cannot serve you at the top of our bent, as Mr. Mocking Bird sings, free of charge and survive, we can do the next best thing—

Sell to you joyously, in smiling spontaneity, the flower of the world's merchandise, at the smallest of prices possible, at the thinnest of profit essential for survival.

Postscript No. 1

Like every other rule, there is an exception to the rule outlined above! A store can occasionally do something in sheer love, and without pay. We refer to the Pageant to be given by Rich's employes to the citizens of Atlanta at the Auditorium Friday night, April 30th, at 8:15.

It is with tenderness that we mention the subject. These girls and boys, men and women—all Rich employes—have worked hard and long, night and day, in rehearsal, after rehearsal, under the direction of Miss Jackson, of New York, to make this Pageant not only a success but the finest thing of the kind ever done in America!

Each one is a volunteer, proffering his or her services in pure love and loyalty!

It may be said in closing that the amount of talent uncovered and directed by Miss Jackson is simply astounding! The Pageant will be a spectacle and entertainment worth dollars to see.

But it is quite free. No admission charges. No tickets. The auditorium doors open at 7:30 Friday night, April 30th, for all!

Postscript No. 2

And exception No. 2. The 59th Anniversary Sale beginning Saturday, April 30th, is a merchandising event undertaken practically without profit!—but for ten days only!

$500,000 worth of new goods, covering practically every human need, at prices almost unbelievably low!

SLAMS AND SALAMS

By Louise Dooly

WERE YOU EVER asked by a friend to read his manuscript of a story, and to tell him "exactly what you think of it?"

The second time you get such a request, you dodge it if there is any chance, because the first time maybe you did tell the truth, and nobody likes to lose a friend.

WE WERE just thinking that this sort of thing must account for a lot of the book criticisms by professionals we see in print.

The writers who have "arrived" all go to New York to live, and there they form such a close corporation—authors and critics—that nobody can afford to be frank about anybody else's work.

Or a critic, maybe, when he reads a new book, says to himself: "Well, this man has done such good work in the past that I can't believe this really latest specimen is as bad as it seems to me. It must be my own mood. I won't trust my feelings, but I'll refresh some of the things I've said about him before and mix them in with other things literary I have been wanting to say myself, and I'll see."

Of course the consequent over-praise sells the book, if the critic is one of influence, and a lot of people don't even admit, when they read the book for themselves, that they are disappointed. These are the people who always wait to express an opinion until they find out first what you are going to say.

THERE is Christopher Morley's new book, "Under the Left," which all the reviewers tore their hair over and one even went so far as to say that it is the greatest book written on this side of the Atlantic in this generation.

After reading it, we decided that Mr. Morley must have a very warm place in the fatness of the world of reviewers. His book is entertaining. It is even literary. And it is frequently clever.

George is meditating about Ben and Ruth, two married friends of his, and it is "The perfect mates,"—so runs his reverie—"too stupid even to disagree with one another. If every other couple in the world went smash, marriage would still be justified by Ben and Ruth."

Or this: George professed to be an agnostic. (It is one of the ways in which the author indicates the superiority of George's mind over that of his credulous wife, who is humble enough to have a creed.) He hurries to Phyllis, his wife, to get her prayer-book "to strengthen his disbelief. He is beginning to weaken."

AN OVERSIGHT. MR. MORLEY'S only use for religion, by the way—and an astonishing number of his literary contemporaries are like-minded—is to clever with it.

Now, there is still quite a host of intelligent people who hold some things sacred. And there are passages of "cleverness" in this book which are obliged to offend their sense of reverence as one's sense of patriotism could be shocked by the sight of some madman trampling on one's country's flag.

Here is a pleasant passage: "If there were only one moonshining night in each century, men would never be done talking about it." "She never thought of trains as lur-ring toward something but rather fleeing wildly from it."

The highest praise that could have been heaped on the book we have not yet seen in print, so we shall take care of that oversight.

It reveals the full measure of Mr. Morley's art in that his book could so easily have been silly, and missed it.

HE KNEW ALL ABOUT US. WHILE WE ARE knocking, there is W. L. George's "Story of a Woman," the last book of his published. We think before his recent death, Mr. George professed to know all about women. Judging by this book, he was fearfully credulous. He seemed to believe, too, all he read of them.

For instance, he says that the attitude toward woman in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries was one of the frankest, though most elegant immorality, and that the document which most precisely shows the conditions is "The Decameron" (by Boccaccio), about 1348.

Womanhood of the sixteenth century he sums up in the words of one of the lady disputants in the "Hecameron" written by Marguerite de Navarre in the sixteenth century: "I must run back through all the years of my life to find one woman whose virtue can belie the bad opinion man has of her."

Then, by the same token, a few centuries from now the world will judge the women of our present time by the fly-by-night heroines of our present outstanding writers; women with little brains and no will; obsessed with their own bodies, and substituting self-indulgence in every desire for woman's one-time sense of loyalty and obligation.

MR. GEORGE'S way of refuting an argument, by the way, is to say it is absurd.

WHICH IS THE TRAGEDY. THEN there is "An American Tragedy," by Dreiser, whose attitude of what somebody calls "barbaric naturalism" is a bit defeated in the new work. For a while he would consider nothing but biological, physical and chemical forces controlling the destinies of his characters, he is declared to have pictured cause and effect so inconspicuously as to "draw a moral" in spite of himself.

One of Dreiser's earlier works, we believe, was forbidden the mails. This last will hardly tempt a circulation wide enough to make such measures necessary.

Was it not one of Godwin's philosophic works which was threatened with suppression by the British censorship? But a wise Englishman counseled against such action as entirely unnecessary. The work cost 3 guineas, and nobody would buy it, anyway.

Well, Dreiser's new novel is two thick volumes. Is it likely in this hurried world that it will have enough readers to make it a menace?

PROVEN WORKS.

AFTER WE HAD written this, we read Brander Matthews' "On the Right of an Author to Repeat Himself" in the current Scribner's.

He differentiates thus between reviewing and criticizing books: "Reviewing, as I see it, is reporting—reporting on the content and the quality of a new book for the benefit of the reader of the periodical, daily or weekly, monthly or quarterly, in which it appears. The critic can adventure his soul in contact with masterpieces, whereas the reviewer has to do the best he can with the books of the day, few of which are the work of a master.

If that's all it takes to be a critic, our next dissertation on books is likely to be Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice."

We did not read it when we should—in high school, probably because we were told we ought to—and we are shamelessly glad we were told, because we could never have found it so delicious as a mature reader had proved. At any minute now we are liable to write about what happened when we adventured our soul in its contact.

East Lake P. T. A. To Have Supper.

The largest and most important event of the year held under the auspices of the East Lake P. T. A. will be the supper to be given Friday evening at 6:30 at the schoolhouse. This is to be in the nature of a big get together party, a fitting climax to the series of entertainments planned and presented by this organization.

A committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert Crenshaw, has drawn up a delicious menu of great variety so that children as well as their parents will be pleased. At the close of the supper a moving picture will be shown in the auditorium for which the charge is only 10 cents. The women of the P. T. A. have been working for several weeks to make this closing affair a great success and a large attendance is urged.

Miss Ruth Briggs Weds Mr. Russell At Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Ruth Briggs, daughter of Harry Briggs, and Walter Harmon Russell was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride on Ponce de Leon avenue Dr. J. Wiley Quillian, pastor of Druid Hills Methodist church performed the ceremony in the presence of intimate friends and relatives of the bride and groom. The guests were received by Miss Annie Mae Branch.

Miss Ethel Pritchett had charge of the music. Preceding the ceremony Miss Ruth Hohn sang "At Dawning" and "Oh Promise Me."

The bride party entered the living room to the bride chorus from Lohengrin. The ceremony took place before an altar of palms on either side of which were tall cathedral candelabra holding white burning tapers and graceful pedestal baskets filled with pink and white gladioli and carnations.

The bride entered with her father and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Arthur Mims. She was lovely in an exquisite afternoon model of powder blue crepe romaine, fashioned in close fitting silhouette effect with full circular skirt bordered with soft shirings of the same material and ornamented with embroidered organza medallions. Her hat was a becoming model of silver gray maline combined with Battenberg lace in pastel shades. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley.

An informal reception followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Atkinson Honors Former Atlantans. Two former Atlantans, Mrs. Cleland Kinloch Nelson, of Washington, D. C., the guest of Mrs. J. S. Barbour, Thompson, and Mrs. Frank Hancy, of Baltimore, the guest of Mrs. Joseph T. Orme, were central figures at the luncheon given Tuesday by Mrs. Harry M. Atkinson at the Piedmont Driving club. The lace-covered table was decorated with spring flowers arranged in silver baskets.

SHOT IN BACK, MAN AT HOSPITAL IS SERIOUSLY ILL

The condition of Nathan Franklin, 22, of 207 Crew street, who came to Grady hospital early Tuesday morning for treatment of a bullet wound in the back, was reported serious Tuesday by physicians. Franklin told doctors he had been shot after an attempted hold-up Tuesday at Crumley and Washington streets when he ran.

He was unable to describe his assailant, saying that he was ordered to put up his hands as he was walking along the street. Becoming frightened, he ran, and the robber shot him, the bullet taking effect in the small of the back and lodging near the right lung.

Meager advices received here today said a group of ranchers met the posse late Sunday night and secured Platero as he was being taken to the Crown Point jail for safe keeping.

A coroner's jury found that the Indian died by poisoning "at the hands of parties unknown." Superintendent Stacher, of the Crown Point agency, and his deputies are investigating.

Alexander Howatt To Attend Russian Communist Meet

Pittsburgh, Kans., April 27.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Herald published a story today saying it had learned that Alexander Howatt, deposited president of the Kansas District Miners' union, is en route to Russia to attend the communist international convention this spring. Howatt plans to sit as a delegate in the convention, the newspaper said.

James E. Callery, of the law firm which represents Howatt, said tonight that he had no information that Howatt would attend the convention. "Howatt left here the latter part of March stating that he and his wife would accompany Mrs. Howatt's aged father to his old home in Scotland," Callery said. "He said he might attend a labor convention in London or Paris if he had time. I think it probable that he is on his way home now."

Marist Editors Named.

Appointment of Edgar Strauss and J. B. Reynolds, of Atlanta, as business managers of the 1926 Marist College Annual was announced Tuesday by the Rev. D. S. Rankin, principal. Work on the Annual has been started by the senior class. Appointment of the editor-in-chief has not yet been made.

Tulip Show Prize Winners Announced by Garden Club

The tulip show, arranged by the Peachtree Garden club and held Tuesday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving club and visited by many flower lovers, marked an important occasion in the history of the club and demonstrated the successful art of gardening in a city.

Awards Made. The awards, blue, red and yellow ribbons for class one, including the best single specimen in the presence of species, Darwin, Breeder's, Cottage, Parrots, Rembrandt, etc. Length of stem counts 25 points, size of bloom 25 points, color 25, carriage of bloom 25, and a container furnished by the club for Darwin tulips were as follows: Mrs. Phyllis Calhoun, first prize for best Darwin tulip, winning with the Noire variety. Mrs. W. H. Kiser won second and third prizes, with the Ednee and Pride of Harlem varieties. In the Breeder's species, first prize was given Mrs. Edward P. McBurney, winning with Louis 14; second, Mrs. Henry Newman, exhibiting William the Silent, and third went to Mrs. Veazey Rainwater, showing Baeus. In the Cottage variety, Mrs. William H. Kiser was awarded first place, exhibiting Ellen Willmot; Mrs. Edward P. McBurney won second, exhibiting Lamirgelle, and the third award went to Mrs. W. H. Kiser, showing Orange King.

In class 2, which included the best collection of tulips with one, two or three of each variety, and exhibited in a container furnished by the club, the blue ribbon was won by Mrs. Henry Newman, with seven varieties; second, won by Mrs. Arthur Harris, with six varieties, and third, won by Mrs. Roy Dorsey, with five varieties.

Mrs. Roy Dorsey won all three awards in class 3, including the display of one variety of tulip, not less than six or more than one dozen blooms, exhibiting the Darwin variety in each award, and the container belonging to the exhibitor. Mrs. Dorsey's first award was won by the Clara Butt, pink tulips filling a dull blue glass bowl. Second, a Zulu, which was a dark, rich purple, and shown in a plum-colored glass vase. Third, golden-brown tulips, exhibited in a plum-colored vase.

Distinctive Type. The most distinctive type of flowers were exhibited in the fourth class, including the arrangement of tulips alone or with any other flower or foliage and shown in the exhibitor's receptacle. Mrs. C. C. Case won the first award with yellow Ellen Willmot tulips, rose and yellow columbine arranged in an amber glass bowl. Mrs. Phyllis Calhoun's collection of lavender and purple Ellen Willmot and Avis Kennecott tulips, combined with rose hedges and wisteria arranged in a clear-green glass bowl, won second prize, while the third award went to Mrs. Arthur Harris for the bronze Queen tulips, Spanish iris and purple tulips arranged in a large, round Egyptian plate.

Miss Nellie Hightower and Mrs. C. C. Case assisted Mrs. William H. Kiser in staging the tulip show.

What Are You Studying?

HISTORY, mathematics, literature, languages, science? In your whole curriculum, there is no lessor more important than how to guard your health. Long after your hard-won French vocabulary is forgotten, you will be putting into daily practice—if you are wise—the rules of health.

School work, with its continual studying, its sports, dances and social affairs demands a vigorous body. How discouraging it is to miss the good times. And sometimes, how unnecessary.

First of all, then, learn the lesson of health. Find out what fresh air will do, exercise, sleep and proper food. Many school girls have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them to find the health they needed and has made their school days happier.

MRS. ALICE LOUTHAN,
Route 2,
Charleston, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I gave my fifteen year old daughter, Louise, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did her a wonderful lot of good. (She had been out of school for four months). I read the advertisements of the Vegetable Compound, and since she has taken it she has improved and has gone back to school again. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be."

CHOICE

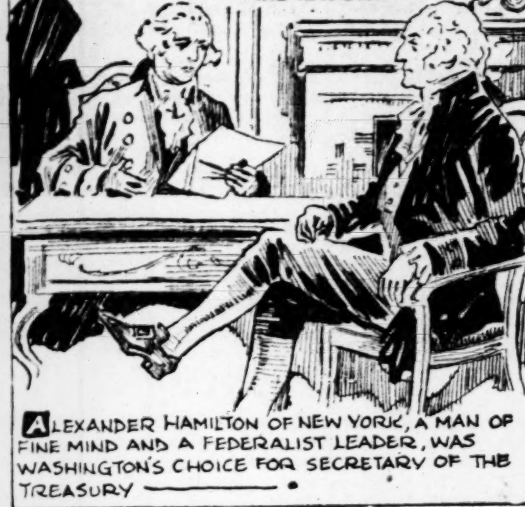

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY Organizing the Government. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

UPON THE SHOULDERS OF GEORGE WASHINGTON, THE FIRST PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, FELL THE RESPONSIBILITY OF SETTING THE WHEELS OF OUR NEW GOVERNMENT IN MOTION.

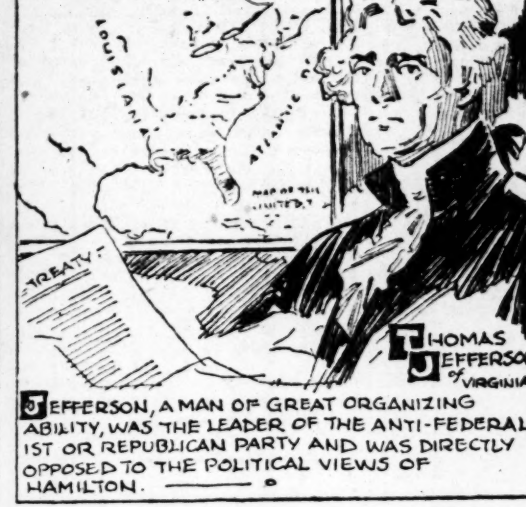

IT HAD BEEN THOUGHT BEST, AT FIRST, TO CALL THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE "HIS HIGHNESS" BUT ALL SUCH NOBLE TITLES WERE DISCARDED IN FAVOR OF ADDRESSING WASHINGTON AS JUST PLAIN "MR. PRESIDENT."

CONGRESS SOON CREATED THE DEPARTMENTS OF STATE, WAR AND THE TREASURY—HEADS OF THESE DEPARTMENTS WERE TO BE CHOSEN BY THE PRESIDENT TO AID HIM IN HIS TASK OF GOVERNING THE NATION.

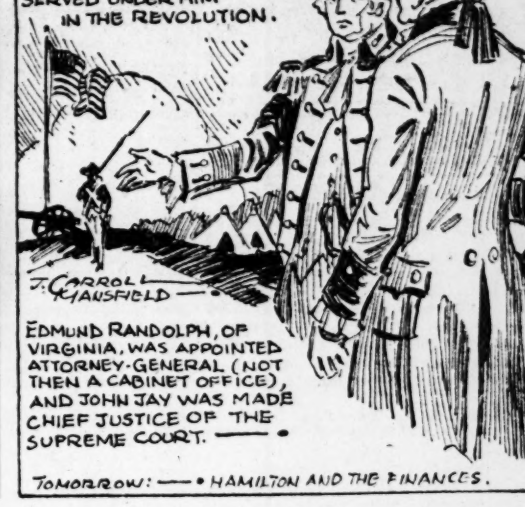

ALEXANDER HAMILTON OF NEW YORK, A MAN OF FINE MIND AND A FIERCEST LEADER, WAS WASHINGTON'S CHOICE FOR SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

THOMAS JEFFERSON, FAMOUS AS "THE FATHER OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE" WAS PICKED BY THE PRESIDENT FOR SECRETARY OF STATE.

JEFFERSON, A MAN OF GREAT ORGANIZING ABILITY, WAS THE LEADER OF THE ANTI-FEDERALIST OR REPUBLICAN PARTY AND WAS DIRECTLY OPPOSED TO THE POLITICAL VIEWS OF HAMILTON.

FOR SECRETARY OF WAR, WASHINGTON CHOSE GENERAL KNOX, AN OFFICER WHO HAD SERVED UNDER HIM IN THE REVOLUTION.

EDMUND RANDOLPH OF VIRGINIA WAS APPOINTED ATTORNEY GENERAL (NOT THEN A CABINET OFFICE) AND JOHN JAY WAS MADE CHIEF JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT.

ITALIAN HUSTLING SPIRIT IMPRESSES DOUG AND MARY

Rome, April 27.—Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are the latest persons to be impressed by "Mussolini's Italy."

As the Americans arrived in Rome Tuesday, 4,000 Italians welcomed them so enthusiastically that they were forced to find their way out through another train in order to avoid being crushed.

"Italy is all bang, bang, bang" with construction work today," said Fairbanks. "There is no more of the 'slow, slouch, slouch' of former days. Mussolini's Italy is far different from the Italy we saw when we were here four years ago."

Mary said that she and Doug had received a series of genuine thrills from "the new spirit of Italy, all alive with youth, like America."

Premier Mussolini will receive the couple Friday.

Historical Society Members Discuss Organization Plan

The Atlanta Historical society held its second organization meeting Tuesday night at the Ansley hotel, at which time plans for completion of the organizations were discussed. Names of 30 Atlanta men and women who are curators of the organization were submitted.

The society will hold another meeting May 14 at the Ansley, at which time the constitution and by-laws will be adopted and election of officers held. Joel Hunter presided as temporary chairman Tuesday night.

The movement to organize the society was launched recently at a meeting of the City club.

INDIAN SLAYER TAKEN BY MOB AND LYNCHED

Albuquerque, N. M., April 27.—(AP) A dispatch to The Herald today says the body of Santiago Platero, Navajo Indian, charged with the murder of J. M. Kimmel, government cattle inspector, 50 miles north of the Crown Point Indian agency, was found yesterday hanging from a tree near the scene of the slaying.

Platero was taken from a sheriff's posse by a party of men while he was being rushed to Crown Point to jail, after his arrest Sunday. The slaying occurred last Saturday.

Man Eats Anything--- Sleeps Like Log

When a man can't eat nor sleep, he will try anything. R. C. Miller had so much on the stomach that he did not enjoy his meals and he tossed in bed all night after he took the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc. (known as Adierika) to sleep like a log and eat anything.

Many people keep the OUTSIDE body clean but let their INSIDE body stay full of gas and poisons. Give the inside a REAL cleansing with the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc. as sold under the name of Adierika. This acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, eliminates metabolic poisons and removes old matter which you never thought was in your system, and which caused your stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, etc.

Whenever you eat too much heavy food, let Adierika REMOVE the indigestible surplus and leave you feeling fine. ONE spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, coated feeling. Even if your bowels move every day, Adierika brings out much additional matter which might cause trouble. Don't waste time with pills or tablets but let Adierika give your stomach and bowels QUICK relief.

What Doctors Say.
Dr. G. Rogers reports Adierika is the best medicine he has used in 32 years.
Dr. W. H. Bernhart writes he could not get along in his practice without Adierika.
Dr. J. J. Weaver, a doctor for 50 years, says he knows no medicine better than Adierika.
Dr. L. Langella prescribes Adierika regularly with good effect.
J. E. Buckett writes: "After using Adierika I feel better than for 20 years. ANTELL impurities were eliminated from my system."
Adierika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and quick action. "Jacobs" Pharmacy and other leading druggists.—(adv.)

Concrete pavement gives greater value per dollar than any other type

Why Atlanta Has 2,000,000 Square Yards of Concrete Streets

Atlanta, Georgia, laid its first concrete street pavement in 1915. It now has 2,000,000 square yards.

Four-fifths of this total was built because property owners asked for concrete.

And they asked for it because they had learned that concrete pavement requires little maintenance.

People in Atlanta like concrete pavement also because its pleasing, light gray color dresses up any street.

They know, too, that this firm, rigid, unyielding pavement always remains true and even and it's safe to drive on, rain or shine.

No wonder more than 1,000 cities and towns laid concrete streets in 1925.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

LEITER ESTATE CASE NEARS END

Chicago, April 27.—(AP)—Attorneys for the Countess of Suffolk have almost completed presentation of testimony intended to show mismanagement of the Levi Z. Leiter estate by Joseph Leiter and William J. Warr, trustees who have no connection with the federal reserve bank system, having been founded before the federal reserve system was established, it is pointed out.

Raymond F. McNally, of St. Louis, is president; Hay V. Lemon, Kansas City, vice president; H. Warner Martin, Atlanta, secretary-treasurer, and Joseph J. Schreiber, Chicago, executive secretary.

The address of welcome this morning will be made by Robert F. Madrox, chairman of the board of the Atlanta & Lowry National bank, while the response will be made by Mr. Lemon, vice president. Bishop Henry J. Mikell will deliver the invocation.

A feature of today's session will be the annual address by President McNally, while the subject for addresses and discussion on Wednesday and Thursday will be "The Issue and Sale of Commercial Paper." On Friday the general topic scheduled is the "High Cost of Banking," and the list of speakers includes L. L. Campbell, deputy governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank; T. C. Tupper, of St. Louis, and Eugene W. Owen, of Boston, Mass.

One of the youngest and most popular bankers at the convention is W. F. Enright, vice president of the Empire Trust company, of St. Joseph, Mo. Enright, a graduate of Harvard with a postgraduate diploma from the business school of the Cambridge university, is a world war veteran who saw hard service in France. He arrived Tuesday.

The entertainment program for the convention includes a golf tournament at Druid Hills with a variety of prizes on Thursday, a trip to the Stone Mountain Memorial at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and a tea at the home of Dr. and Mrs. James D. Johnson at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

On Thursday there will be a bridge-luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club for wives of visiting bankers and at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night a stage dinner will be given at the Druid Hills club while, on the same evening, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Heinz will give a buffet supper for women at their Druid Hills home.

Candler Dines British Writer Here for 'Spur'

John V. Noel, special writer for The Spur, was honor guest Tuesday at a luncheon at the Biltmore hotel given to members of the Forward Atlanta commission by William Candler. The dinner was given to obtain Mr. Noel's views on advertising campaigns and the awakening of the south as a winter resort.

Mr. Noel is collecting data for a series of articles for The Spur in regard to business conditions in the south. In a short talk given at the luncheon Mr. Noel declared that the mid-south is just awakening to its possibilities as to industries and amusement resorts.

"Atlanta is one of the logical points for such developments," said Mr. Noel. "With the proper advertising," he said, "a vast amount of money will be brought in for amusements alone. The present comprehensive plan for advertisement of Atlanta will be noticeable within a short time."

The speaker was introduced by Mr. Candler. Others present at the luncheon were W. D. Hoffman, Fred Newell, Phil Austin, W. C. Royer, Ivan Allen, J. K. Orr, Holland B. Judkins, Bruce Moran and Miss Myra Scott.

Disabled Veterans' Program Featured By Excellent Program

One of the largest crowds in many months attended the meeting of Woodrow Wilson chapter, No. 1, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, in the main dining room of the Ansley hotel Tuesday night. Entertainment was sponsored by Miss Marie Carter.

The Charleston and other fancy dance steps were demonstrated by the following local stars, most of them pupils of Miss Carter: Miss Rubina Astin, Miss Mary Lou Harding, Miss Hazel Jones, Miss Sarah Bosworth and Miss Margaret Mooring.

Vocal selections were rendered by Miss Margaret Blackwood and Miss Eunice Holmes played selections on the piano. The Cox trio played several classical and jazz numbers. Additional music was furnished by the "Atlanta Bellhops," local orchestra.

A feature of the evening's entertainment was a broadcast of three-minute speeches by Dr. Robert C. Ewe, Holly Lee, George Kitzinger and Gladstone Pitt. Mr. Hall acted as announcer and read a number of telegrams purported to have been sent by listeners. After the four veterans had poured forth an eloquent flow of oratory, the microphone was found to be connected with a large cabbage. Mr. Pitt was awarded the vegetable by popular request of the chapter.

Several men from Fort McPherson were among new members initiated during the business session. Another new member to take the oath and the sixth woman to join the local chapter was Mrs. Fred R. Stokes, who saw service in France with the American Red Cross.

Stevens Issues Sharp Warning To Loan Sharks

That a complete investigation of "loan sharks" probably will be launched in Atlanta soon was announced Tuesday by Assistant Solicitor for Ed Stevens following a dinner in honor of Leon Henderson, representative of the Russell Sage foundation, of New York, at the chamber of commerce.

Tuesday's dinner was attended by a representative group of Atlanta business men.

Mr. Henderson, who has traveled extensively in the interest of lower rates of interest on loans, declared in his talk that Atlanta seems to be a center for loan sharks and that more shark companies now exist here than in any city of its size in the country.

He declared that today there are 100 loan companies in Atlanta charging exorbitant rates of interest on money loaned. Many of the companies in Atlanta are head offices for branch houses in various parts of the country, he said.

While Mr. Stevens made no announcement as to what steps will be taken in regard to the figures given by Mr. Henderson, he declared that the solicitor's office will follow up the talk with a thorough investigation of conditions.

Directors and officers of the Stone Mountain Memorial association will be elected this afternoon at 3 o'clock in a membership meeting at the chamber of commerce.

A board of directors will be elected first and afterwards the new directors will elect officers and members of the executive committee for the coming year. It was reported Tuesday that the present staff of directors and officers would be re-elected at today's meeting.

DODGE CHIEF SEES BRIGHT PROSPECT FOR ATLANTA DIRT

Real estate in Atlanta is a stable investment, and such investments are certain to give substantial returns, in the opinion of Truman S. Morgan, president of the F. W. Dodge corporation, who is in Atlanta inspecting the local office of his company.

The Dodge company gives daily reports on construction in all parts of the United States, and Mr. Morgan based his prediction of enhancement of Atlanta real estate values on figures compiled by his organization. Mr. Morgan was particularly impressed with the large number of fine residences in Atlanta.

It looks to me like Atlanta offers better or equally as good opportunities for real estate development as Florida," he said.

DANCERS PERFORM AT FORT McPHERSON

An interesting program of music, dances and other entertainment was given Tuesday night at the benefit performance of the Fort McPherson Masonic club for the Tubercular home at Alto. Several well-known musical organizations took part. One of the features was a series of dances given by 25 talented students of Miss Nellie Sullivan.

Establishment of the highest price since 1923 by Japanese yen at 47.7-16 cents featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Demand sterling was slightly weaker.

Four Georgia Boys
Held as Forgers

As Tables Turn

San Antonio, Texas, April 17.—(AP) Four youths from Waycross, Ga., were held here today for Georgia officers after the San Antonio uncle of one of the boys turned them over to local authorities.

The nephew of the San Antonio man is wanted in Waycross for the forging of a $1,000 check on his father. About a week ago the boys who are 2 to 16 years of age, obtained the money, bought an automobile and started to Texas. They eluded officers by stopping at hotels. Detained once in Waco, the four decided to hide with the San Antonio man, but he denied them refuge.

COTTON STATEMENT.

continued quiet in the gray goods market today with prices somewhat steady. The consequence of reports of curtailment centers. Raw silk was easier. Goods continued quiet with prices steady. Burlaps were quiet as the war and novelties in soft finished goods received more attention from shrewd buyers who are planning fall showings. The goods markets as a whole showed no change.

Styles of Early 60's Will Be Depicted in Pageant Celebrating 59th Birthday of M. Rich and Brothers

Some of the wives and daughters of Confederate veterans who were mustered out of the Confederate army in Atlanta in 1865 will take part in the birthday pageant to be staged by employees of M. Rich and Brothers company at the city auditorium Friday night.

The pageant, which will appear in the prologue which shows Atlanta at the close of the War Between the States when the Confederate soldiers are bidding farewell after four years of service. Below are some of the belles and dandies of the immediate post-war period in 1867 at the time of the beginning of the Rich store fifty-nine years ago.

Finishing touches are being given the big birthday pageant to be staged at the city auditorium Friday night by the employees of M. Rich and Brothers company in celebration of the fifty-ninth anniversary of the founding of the company. All indications point to the presentation of one of the most enjoyable amusement offerings ever seen in Atlanta.

The pageant is given by employees as a courtesy to the people of Atlanta and there will be no admission charge of any kind. The pageant will reveal the progress of the Rich organization during the 59 years and also the progress of the city of Atlanta for the same period.

One of the quaintest features of the pageant will be a prologue showing Atlanta at the end of the War Between the States, just two years before the establishment of M. Rich and Brothers company in 1867. A group of soldiers are shaking hands in farewell after serving for four years in the armies of the South.

In the Rich organization are several sons and daughters of veterans who personally were present at the end of the war. Some of these are in active service in the store and will appear in the prologue.

The pageant is staged under the direction of Miss Olive Jackson, of New York city, with Signor Emilio Volpi, of Atlanta, in charge of the musical numbers. It is in five episodes, and each episode represents an era in the development of Atlanta and the Rich store.

SPANISH AVIATORS STILL IN INDO-CHINA

Saigon, French Indo-China, April 27.—(AP)—Captain Loriga, one of the Madrid-Manila fliers, who took off from here yesterday morning for Hanoi, 800 miles distant, landed last night at Hue, Annam, after completing about 400 miles. He left Hue this morning and was obliged to come down at Vinh, Cochinchina, 200 miles from Hanoi, for gasoline.

Captain Gallarza, his companion, reached Hanoi from Saigon in one hop last night. He is to take off for Canton, China, a distance of about 500 miles tomorrow morning.

NOTICE TO BUILDING AND HEATING CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the City Hall, Decatur, Georgia, until 2:30 o'clock p. m., Tuesday, May 11, 1926, for the construction and heating of a Grade School Building. Additions and Alterations to Junior High School Building, to Colored School Building and to Winona Park School Building, all for the Public School System of Decatur.

Each bid for construction and each bid for heating must be accompanied with a certified check in an amount set up in the specifications, made payable to C. D. McKinney, Chairman, as a guarantee that if awarded the contract the successful bidder will immediately enter into contract and furnish surety bond as required by the specifications. The said certified checks are to be recognizable at any bank for payment with the simple endorsement of C. D. McKinney, Chairman, otherwise bid will be thrown out.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Drawings and specifications may be seen at the office of Edwards & Hayward, Architects, 515 101 Marietta Street Building, Atlanta, Georgia; at the City Hall, Decatur, Georgia; and at the Builders' Exchange, 104 Allen Building, Atlanta, Georgia.

Building and Heating contractors wishing to bid may obtain drawings and specifications from the architects by accompanying their application with a certified check in the amount of $25, payable to Edwards & Hayward, Architects. Failure on the part of any contractor to give bona fide bid for the work, or failure to return the drawings and specifications to the architects after bids are received, will forfeit said certified check for $25 to the said architects.

Sub-contractors wishing to get drawings and specifications are required to pay the architects $10.00 each for the use of same.

By order of BOARD OF EDUCATION, Decatur Public Schools.

C. D. McKINNEY, Chairman.
